(The above-mentioned Thomas de Mowbray, Duke of Norfolk, was son and heir of John, Lord Mowbray, by Elizabeth, dau. and heir of John, Lord Segrave, and of Margaret Plantagenet his wife, dau. and heir of Thomas Plantagenet, surnamed De Brotherton, Earl of Norfolk, and marshal of England, the eldest son of EDWARD I., by his 2nd wife, Margaret, dau. of PHILIP le Hardi, King of France. This Thomas de Brotherton, Earl of Norfolk, was created EARL MARSHAL, 10 Feb. 1315, being the first so designated, his predecessors having been simply styled marshals). and an only son,

SIR JOHN HOWARD, an eminent Yorkist, not only on account of his princely birth (maternally) and magnificent fortune, but from the stations of high trust which at different periods had devolved upon him. After distinguishing himself very early in life in the French wars of HENRY VI., Sir John was constituted by EDWARD IV., in 1461, constable of the castle of Norwich, appointed sheriff of the cos. of Norfolk and Suffolk, and granted some of the forfeited manors of James Butler, Earl of Wiltshire, in England, and of Ormonde, in Ireland. In 1468, being treasurer of the king's household, Sir John Howard obtained a grant of the whole benefit that should accrue to the king by coinage of money in the city and Tower of London, or elsewhere in the realm of England, so long as he should continue in that office. In 1470, when he was summoned to parliament under the title of Lord Howard, he was made captain-general of all the king's forces at sea for resisting the attempts of the Lancastrians, then rallying under Nevill, Earl of Warwick, the Duke of Clarence, and others. In 1471, his lordship was constituted deputy-governor of Calais and the marches adjacent; and his summons to parliament as a Baron continued until he was created Earl Marshal of England, and DUKE OF NORFOLK, 28 June, 1483, when his son and heir, Thomas Howard, was created Earl of Surrey. The duke had been previously invested with the insignia of the Garter. As earl-marshal, his grace was empowered (in the king's presence or absence) to bear a golden staff, tipped at each end with black, the upper part thereof to be adorned with the royal arms, and the lower with those of his own family; and for the better support of the dignity of the said office, he obtained a grant to himself, and his heirs for ever, of £20 annually, payable half-yearly, out of the fee-farm rent of Ipswich, in Suffolk. His grace was subsequently constituted lord-admiral of England, Ireland, and Aquitaine, for life, and obtained grants of divers manors and lordships in the cos of Suffolk, Kent, Cambridge, Cornwall, Somerset, and Wilts. But he did not long enjoy these great possessions; for the next year, being with RICHARD, at Bosworth Field, he fell in leading the van of that prince's army. His grace was warned by some of his friends to refrain from attending his sovereign to the field; and the night previous to the battle the following distich was set upon his gate:-

"Jockey of Norfolk, be not too bold,
For Dickon thy master is bought and sold."

Yet he would not desert his royal master; but as he had faithfully lived under him, so he manfully died by his side. His grace m. 1st, Katherine, dau. of William, Lord Moleyns, by whom he had issue,

THOMAS, Earl of Surrey.
Anne, m. to Sir Edmund Gorges, of Wraxhall, Somersetshire, K.B.

The duke was attainted by parliament, 7 Nov. 1485, when all his honours became forfeited; while his only son,

THOMAS, Earl of Surrey, being also attainted, lost his earldom. His lordship was, however, after suffering an imprisonment of three years in the Tower, restored in 1489, and created Duke of Norfolk and earl-marshal, 1 Feb. 1514, installed a Knight of the Garter, and nominated lord-treasurer. This nobleman was a distinguished military commander, and celebrated, as Lord Surrey, for the victory he achieved over the Scottish monarch at Flodden, in which that prince (JAMES IV.) fell, 9 Sept. 1513. His grace m. 1st, Elizabeth, dau. and heir of Sir Frederick Tilney, of Boston, co. His grace m. 1st, the Princess Anne, 3rd dau. of EDWARD IV., but by her had no surviving issue; and 2ndly, Elizabeth, dau. of Edward Stafford, Duke of Buckingham, by whom he had,

i. HENRY, K.G., Earl of Surrey, b. in 1517, one of the brightest ornaments of the house of Howard, whose iniquitous execution was the last tyrannical act of HENRY VIII. This distinguished statesman, poet, and warrior, Sir Egerton Brydges thus characterizes:—"Excellent in arts and in arms; a man of learning, a genius, and a hero; of a generous temper and a refined heart; he united all the gallantry and unbroken spirit of a rude age with all the elegance and grace of a polished era. With a splendour of descent, in possession of the highest honours and abundant wealth, he relaxed not his efforts to deserve distinction by his personal worth. Conspicuous in the rough exercises of tilts and tournaments, and commanding armies with skill and bravery in expeditions against the Scots under his father, he found time, at a period when our literature was rude and barbarous, to cultivate his mind with all the exquisite spirit of the models of Greece and Rome, to catch the excellencies of the revived muses of Italy, and to produce in his own language, compositions, which, in simplicity, perspicuity, graceful ornament, and just and natural thought, exhibited a shining contrast with the works of his predecessors, and an example which his successors long attempted in vain to follow." The Earl of Surrey underwent the penalty of his unjust sentence during the lifetime of his father (whom the death of the king preserved from the same fate), 21 Jan. 1547, leaving issue by his wife, Lady Frances Vere, dau. of John, 15th Earl of Oxford,

Lineage.

EDWARD NORTH was born about the year 1496, and brought up to the profession of the law; in which he made so fair a progress, that he was elected one of the council for the city of London. In the 22nd HENRY VIII., Mr. North was appointed joint clerk of the parliament, and in six years afterwards (1536) he became one of the king's serjeants-at-law. On the surrender of the former post, he was made treasurer of the Court of Augmentations, an office newly erected upon the dissolution of the monasteries; and he became afterwards chancellor of the court. He was soon after knighted, and returned to parliament as representative of the co. Cambridge. We next find Sir Edward a privy-councillor, and in such favour with the king, as to obtain various grants of lands from the crown, and at his Highness's death, to be appointed one of his executors, with a legacy of £300. After the accession of EDWARD VI., he was re-sworn of the privy council, and re-elected for Cambridgeshire. But upon the decease of that monarch, Sir Edward seems to have espoused the cause of Lady Jane Grey. He made his peace, however, very soon with Queen MARY, for on her accession he was again sworn of the privy council, and elevated to the peerage in the first year of her reign, 17 Feb. 1553-4, being then summoned to parliament as Baron North, of Kirtling, co. Cambridge (a manor which he purchased about the time he was appointed clerk of the parliament). Lineage.

The great antiquity and high respectability of this family are clearly proved by an ancient and copious pedigree, preserved in the College of Arms, accompanied by a great number of family deeds, fines, wills, &c., to several of which are affixed their seals of arms; which pedigree is continued down to the Visitation of 1620, in the reign of King James I. There is no doubt whatever that the name is of local derivation, being originally written Al, or De Northcote, a hamlet or manor in the parish of Inwardlegh, in Devonshire, which, as Sir William Pole says, "gave name unto his dwellers, of whom John Northcot, in King, Henry the IVth's time, left Jone, his daughter, married unto John Loterell, and by this means the land became Loterel's." And in another place he observes, "Joell de Northcote held four parts of a knight's fee of the Bishop of Exon, in King Henry the IInd's time. The name remaynes; the land in others." The first ancestor we find on record is in the year 1103, being the third year of the reign of King Henry I., when Galfridus Miles had his seat at Northcote, in the parish of East Down, in the co. of Devon. He was s. by John, his son, styled "Johannes, filius Johannis Galfride Miles, habitantis in Northcote, in parochia de East Down, in Devon; mutavit nomen cum loco." Thus, says an ancient record, late in the possession of Thomas Wescote, gent. This John was s. by Galfridus de Northcote, in 1118, of whom it is observed, "Galfridus de Northcote tenet in Northcote unum fœdium de Abbate de Tavistock in manerio de Burington et hundred de North Tawnton." He held lands also in Colston, in Witheridge Hundred, and had two sons, viz., William and Walter. William de Northcote, eldest son, m. Margarite de Afeton, dau. of Robert de Afeton, in 1190, the issue of which marriage were three sons, viz., Walter, Andrew, and Edmund. Andrew de Northcote, the 2nd son, m. Matilda Faber, eldest dau. of Peter Faber, of Bovytracy, in Devon, in the 17th year of the reign of King Edward I., and had issue three sons, viz., William, Robert, and Edmund.* William de Northcote, the eldest son, m. Matilda Hillion, dau. and heiress of Robert Hillion,† in the 19th year of the reign of King Edward II. (1325), and had issue two sons, viz, John and Andrew. He was s. by the eldest son, John de Northcote, who, in 1343, being the 16th year of the reign of King Edward III., m. Johanna Meoles,‡ the 2nd dau.

* In an old manuscript, written by Mr. Westcote, an eminent antiquary of Devonshire, describing the church of Crediton, in that co., he says, that "near the monument of Sir William Peryam, upon playn stone, under which lye two of the Northcotes, uncle and cousin, are these verses:—

'Edmond and Edward Northcott I intomb
Uncle and cousin in my sacred womb;
One Aprill intomb'd both; this did decay,
In his years April: that in's second May.'"

These were relatives to the aforesaid Andrew de Northcote.

† This family of Hillion is of high antiquity in Devonshire, though now believed to be extinct. At the Norman accession, Hervy de Hillion held Ashton, then called Asseriston, and the genealogy came down to the time of Edward III., through Robert, his son, who was father of Hervy, father of Gelenus, father of Alan, father of Robert, father of Robert, father of Robert de Hillion, whose dau. Matilda, m. Northcote. Such was their consequence in the co. that each of these were knights, and the name was either taken for, or given to, the manors of Upton, Hillion, and Credy Hillion, which were long in their possession.

‡ This family of Meoles or Mueles, were ancient barons of Devonshire. John, Lord Mueles m. Margaret, sister of Hugh Courtenay, 1st Earl of Devon, by whom he had a son, Nicholas de Mueles, who was the King's seneschal in Gascony and and co-heiress of Roger Meoles, by his wife Avis, sole heiress to Sir William le Prouse. The family of Northcote gained great possessions by this marriage, and her two sisters being also married, the eldest to John Damerel, the youngest to Wibery, a great inheritance was divided amongst them, as may be seen by a writ of partition, dated in the 14th year of King EDWARD III.; the issue of this marriage were two sons, viz., JOHN, and Robert. From the elder, John, descended,

I. JOHN NORTHCOTE, Esq. of Hayne (eldest son and heir of John Northcote, Esq. of Upton, co. In 1595, he was constituted one of the eight commissioners of the Treasury, called OCTAVIANS, and dying in 1598, left

Lineage.

"Not more famous in arms than distinguished for its alliances," (we quote Sir Harris Nicolas) "the house of Percy stands pre-eminent for the number and rank of the families which are represented by the DUKE OF NORTHUMBERLAND; whose banner, consequently, exhibits an assemblage of nearly nine hundred armorial ensigns; among which are those of King HENRY VII., of several younger branches of the Blood Royal, of the Sovereign Houses of France, Castile, Leon, and Scotland, and of the Ducal Houses of Normandy and Brittany, forming a galaxy of heraldic honours altogether unparalleled."

The house of Percy was founded in England by one of the Norman chieftains (William de Percy), who accompanied WILLIAM the Conqueror in 1066, and it derives its name from the village of Percy, near Villedieu. The family of Percy, of Normandy, deduced its pedigree from Geoffrey (son of Mainfred, a Danish chieftain,) who assisted Rollo, in 912, in subjugating that principality, and acquired considerable possessions there.

WILLIAM DE PERCY being in high favour with the victorious duke, obtained, according to Madox, in his Baronia Anglica, a barony of thirty knights' fees from that monarch in his new dominions, and thus became a feudal lord of the realm from the Conquest. This lord, William de Percy, who was distinguished among his contemporaries by the addition of als Gernons (William with the Whiskers), whence his posterity have constantly borne the name of Algernon, restored, or rather refounded, the famous abbey of St. Hilda, in Yorkshire, of which his brother, Serlo de Percy, became first prior. Accompanying, however, Duke Robert in the first crusade, 1096, he died at Mountjoy, near Jerusalem, the celebrated eminence whence the pilgrims of the cross first viewed the holy city, leaving four sons and two daus., by his wife, Emma de Port, a lady of Saxon descent, whose lands were amongst those bestowed upon him by the CONQUEROR; and, according to an ancient writer, "he wedded hyr that was very heire to them, in discharging of his conscience." His lordship was s. in his feudal rights and possessions by his eldest son,

ALAN DE PERCY, 2nd baron, surnamed The Great Alan; who m. Emma, dau. of Gilbert de Gaunt (which Gilbert was son of Baldwin, Earl of Flanders, and nephew of Queen MAUD, wife of WILLIAM THE CONQUEROR), and was s. by his eldest son,

WILLIAM DE PERCY, 3rd baron, at whose decease the eldest branch of the first race of Percys, from Normandy, became extinct in the male line, and their great inheritance devolved upon his lordship's two daus. (by Alice de Tunbridge, dau. of Richard, Earl of Clare, who was usually styled De Tunbridge, from his castle of that name) the Ladies MAUDE and AGNES DE PERCY, successively,

MAUDE DE PERCY, the elder, was 1st wife of William de Newburgh, Earl of Warwick, by whom (who d. in the Holy Land, A.D. 1184) she had no issue. Her ladyship d. in 1204-5, and then the whole possessions of the Percys descended to the family of her sister.

AGNES DE PERCY, who m. Josceline, of Lovain, brother of Queen ADELIZA, 2nd wife of HENRY I., and son of Godfrey Barbatus, Duke of Lower Brabant, and Count of Brabant, who was descended from the Emperor CHARLEMAGNE. Her ladyship, it is stated, would only consent, however, to this great alliance upon condition that Josceline should adopt either the surname or arms of PERCY; the former of which, says the old family tradition, he accordingly assumed, and retained his own paternal coat, in order to perpetuate his claim to the principality of his father, should the elder line of the reigning duke, at any period, become extinct. The matter is thus stated in the great old pedigree at Sion House: "The ancient arms of Hainault this Lord Jocelyn retained, and gave his children the surname of PERCI." Of this illustrious alliance there were several children, of whom,

I. HENRY DE PERCY, the eldest son, who appears to have died before his mother, m. Isabel, dau. of Adam de Brus, Lord of Skelton, with whom he had the manor of Levington, for which he and his heirs were to repair to Skelton Castle every Christmas-day, and to lead the lady of the castle from her chamber to the chapel to mass, and thence to her chamber again, and after dining with her to depart. This Henry left two sons,

1 WILLIAM, of whom presently.
2 Henry, ancestor of the Percys of Hesset, Sussex.

II. RICHARD DE PERCY, the youngest son of Agnes and Josceline, got possession of the entire property of his aunt, Maud, Countess of Warwick, and even of a great proportion of that of his mother, and retained the same during the principal part of his life; at length, subsequently to infinite litigation, it was settled between him and his nephew, William de Percy, to whom the inheritance belonged, after a solemn hearing before the king in person, 6 July, 1234 (18th HENRY III.), that the estates should be divided into equal portions between the parties during Richard's life; and that, after his death, all the ancient patrimony of the Percy family should devolve upon his nephew aforesaid, a small reservation having been made for Richard's son and heir, Henry de Percy. This Richard de Percy continued for the whole of his life at the head of the family, and enjoyed all its baronial rights. He was one of those powerful feudal lords who took up arms, in 1215, against King JOHN, and having a principal hand in extorting the Great Charter of English freedom, was chosen one of the twenty-five guardians to see the Magna Charta duly observed. He d. about 1244, and then his nephew,

WILLIAM DE PERCY, came into full possession of all those rights and properties which had been usurped at the decease of his mother, but did not live long to enjoy them. He d. in 1245, and was s. by his son (by his 2nd wife, Elena, dau. of Ingelram de Baliol, by whom he acquired, in dower, Dalton, afterwards called Dalton Percy, in the Bishopric of Durham),

HENRY DE PERCY, who m. Alianore, dau. of John Plantagenet, Earl of Warren and Surrey; and dying in 1272, was s. by his only surviving son,

HENRY DE PERCY, 9th feudal lord, who was summoned to parliament from 6 Feb. 1299 (27th EDWARD I) to 29 July, 1315 (8th EDWARD II.). This nobleman obtained, 19 Nov. 1309, from Anthony Beck, Bishop of Durham, by purchase, a grant of the Barony of Alnwick, co. Northumberland. His lordship was one of the great barons who subscribed, in 1391, the celebrated letter to Pope BONIFACE VIII. upon the attempt of his holiness to interpose in the affairs of the kingdom, intimating "That their king was not to answer in judgment, for any rights of the crown of England, before any tribunal under Heaven, &c., and that, by the help of God, they would resolutely, and with all their force, maintain against all men." He d. in 1315, and was s. by his son,

HENRY DE PERCY, 2nd Lord Percy of Alnwick. This nobleman had a grant from the crown, in the 2nd of EDWARD III., of the reversion of the Barony and Castle of Warkworth, &c. He had summons to parliament from 1322 to the time of his death, 26 Feb. 1351-2, when he was s. by his eldest son (by Idonia, dau. of Robert, Lord Clifford).

HENRY DE PERCY, 3rd Lord Percy of Alnwick, who, in the lifetime of his father, had participated in the glories of Crecy (26 Aug. 1346). His lordship m. 1st, in her ladyship's 14th year, the Lady Mary Plantagenet, dau. of Henry, Earl of Lancaster, which Henry was son of Edmund, Earl of Lancaster, Leicester, &c., 2nd son of HENRY III. By this marriage his lordship had two ons, HENRY, his successor.

Thomas, created in 1397, Earl of Worcester, K.G., a very eminent warrior and statesman in the reigns of EDWARD III., RICHARD II., and HENRY IV. (See BURKE'S Extinct and Dormant Peerage).

His lordship m. 2ndly, Joan, dau. and heir of John de Oreby, of Lincolnshire, one of the barons in the reign of EDWARD III., by whom he left one dau., Mary, who m. John Lord Ros, of Hamlake, but d. s. p. in 1395. He d. 17 June, 1368, and was s. by his elder son,

HENRY, 4th Lord Percy of Alnwick, a distinguished military commander in the reign of EDWARD III., who, assisting as marshal of England at the coronation of RICHARD II., was advanced on the same day, 16 July, 1377, to the Earldom of Northumberland, with remainder to his heirs general; and, like a barony in fee, transmissible, it would appear, to female as well as male heirs. His lordship m. 1st, Margaret, dau. of Ralph, Lord Nevill of Raby, and had

I. HENRY (Sir), the renowned Hotspur. He fought the famous battle of Otterbourn, near the Cheviot Hills, in Northumberland (Chevy Chace), where he and his brother, Sir Ralph Percy, were made prisoners, and James, Earl of Douglas, was slain. He m. Elizabeth, dau. of Edward Mortimer, Earl of March, by Philippa, dau. and heir of Lionel Plantagenet, Duke of Clarence, and falling at the battle of Shrewsbury, in 1403, left issue,
  1 HENRY, who inherited as 2nd Earl of Northumberland.
  1 Elizabeth, m. 1st, to John, Lord Clifford; and 2ndly, to Ralph, Earl of Westmorland.
II. Thomas (Sir), m. Elizabeth, elder dau. and co-heir of David Strabolgi, Earl of Athole, by whom (who m. 2ndly, Sir Henry Scrope) he had issue,
  Henry, of Athole, who m. Elizabeth, widow of Robert, Lord Scales, and dying 1433, left two daus., his co-heirs, viz.,
    Elizabeth, m. 1st, to Thomas, Lord Burgh; and 2ndly, to Sir William Lucy.
    Margaret, m. 1st, to Lord Grey, of Condor; and 2ndly, to Richard, Earl of Oxford.
III. Ralph (Sir), m. Philippa, the other dau. and co-heir of David Strabolgi, Earl of Athole, but d. s. p.
IV. Alan. 1. Margaret.

The earl m. 2ndly, MAUD, sister and heir of Anthony, Lord Lucy, which Anthony settled upon his lordship and his heirs the Honour and Castle of Cockermouth, with other great estates, on condition that the arms of his sister should be for ever quartered with those of the Percys. In the 7th year of the same monarch, the earl having been elected one of the knights of the Garter, the King bestowed upon him the robes of the order out of the royal wardrobe. In some years afterwards, however, being proclaimed a traitor, and his lands declared forfeited by King RICHARD, his lordship, in conjunction with his son, Sir Henry Percy, and Henry, Duke of Lancaster, effected the dethronement of that monarch, and placed the crown upon the head of Henry, Duke of Lancaster, under the title of HENRY IV. Again dissatisfied with the government, the Duke is charged with concerting the rebellion, in which his son HOTSPUR, and his brother, the Earl of Worcester, engaged, in 1403, for transferring the sceptre to Mortimer, Earl of March, then a boy. Of these two eminent persons Sir Henry Percy fell, performing prodigies of valour, at Battle Field, near Shrewsbury, 21 July, 1403; and Thomas Percy, Earl of Worcester, was beheaded after the battle at Shrewsbury, The Earl of Northumberland fell subsequently (29 Feb. 1407-8), in arms against the king, at Bramham Moor, near Halsewood, when his honours became forfeited under an attainder, but were restored, in 1414, to his grandson,

HENRY PERCY, 2nd Earl of Northumberland, who m. Lady Eleanor Nevil, dau. of Ralph, 1st Earl of Westmorland, and Joan de Beaufort, dau. of John of Gaunt, and aunt of HENRY V. Of this nobleman and his countess and their issue, the following account is given in a very curious MS. preserved in the British Museum, and there said to be extracted "ex Registro Monasterij de Whitbye;" "Henry Percy, the son of Sir Henry Percy that was slayne at Shrewesbery, and of Elizabeth, the dau. of the Erle of Marche, after the death of his father and graunt-syre was exiled into Scotland in the time of HENRY V.; by the labour of Johanne, the Countess of Westmorland (whose dau., Alianor, he wedded on coming into England), he recovered the king's grace and the co. of Northumberland, so was the 2nd Earl of Northumberland. And of this Alianor his wife, he begat IX sonnes and III daus., whose names be, Johanne, that is buried at Whitbye; Thomas (created). Lord Egremont; Katheryne Gray, of Ruthyn (wife of Edmund, Lord Grey, afterwards Earl of Kent); Sir Raffe Percy; William Percy, a byshopp; Richard Percy; John, that d. without issue; another John (called by Vincent, in his MS. Baronage, at the Heralds'-office, John Percy, senior, of Warkworth); George Percy, clerk; Henry, that dyed without issue; besides the eldest sonne and successor, Henry, 3rd Erle of Northumberland." His lordship, who was lord-high-constable, fell at the battle of St. Albans, 23 May, 1455, on the side of HENRY VI., and was s. by his eldest surviving son,

HENRY, 3rd earl, who m. Eleanor, dau. and sole heir of Richard Poynings, who d. in the lifetime of his father, Lord Poynings; by which marriage the baronies of Poynings, Fitzpayne, and Bryan, came into the family of Percy; and Sir Henry Percy was summoned to parliament, while his father, the Earl of Northumberland, yet lived (29th HENRY VI.), as Baron Poynings. His lordship fell, leading the van of the Lancastrians, sword in hand, at the battle of Towton, 29 March, 1461, and his honours became subsequently forfeited by an act of attainder, but were restored to his only son,

HENRY, 4th earl, K.G., who was confined in the Tower of London from the death of his father until 27 Oct. 1469; when, being brought before EDWARD IV., at his palace of Westminster, he subscribed an oath of allegiance, and was restored to his freedom and dignity, although the reversal of his father's attainder does not appear upon the rolls of parliament. The king had previously created John, Lord Montague, Earl of Northumberland, but upon the re-establishment of the rightful earl, Lord Montague was created Marquess of Montague. This Henry, 4th earl, fell a victim, in 1489, to the avarice of HENRY VII. In that year, parliament having granted the king a subsidy for carrying on the war in Bretagne, the Earl of Northumberland, as lord-lieut. of the co., was empowered to enforce the same; but the tax causing a general commotion, his lordship wrote to inform the king of the discontent, and praying an abatement; to which HENRY peremptorily replied, "that not a penny should be abated;" which message being delivered incautiously by the earl to the populace, who had assembled to complain of their grievances, they broke into his house (supposing him to be the promoter of their sufferings), Cocklodge, in Yorkshire, and murdered his lordship and some of his attendants, 28 April, 1489. The earl m. Maud, dau. of William-Herbert, 1st Earl of Pembroke, and was s. by his eldest son,

HENRY-ALGERNON, 5th earl, K.G., who m. Catherine, dau. and co-heir of Sir Robert Spencer, Knt. of Spencer-Combe, Devon (by Eleanor his wife, dau., and at length co-heir, of Edmond Beaufort, Duke of Somerset), and had,

HENRY-ALGERNON, his successor.
Thomas (Sir), executed for Aske's conspiracy, 29 HENRY VIII., leaving two sons,
  THOMAS, } successively Earls of Northumberland.
  HENRY, }
Ingelram (Sir).*
Margaret, m. to Henry Clifford, 1st Earl of Cumberland.
Maud, m. to Lord Coniers.

His lordship d. in 1527, and was s. by his eldest son,

HENRY-ALGERNON, 6th earl, K.G. This nobleman entertained a strong and early passion for the beautiful ANNE BOLEYN, but urged by the irresistible influence of HENRY VIII., his father compelled him to renounce all intention of making that lady his wife, and to espouse the Lady Mary Talbot, dau. of George, Earl of Shrewsbury. His lordship d. without issue, in 1537, and his brother, Sir Thomas

* From Sir Ingelram Percy, 3rd son of Henry-Algernon, 5th Earl of Northumberland, James Percy, the trunkmaker, who claimed, unsuccessfully, the honours of Northumberland, alleged that he was descended. (See under Joceline, 11th earl, next page.)

Percy, having been previously attainted and executed, all the honours of the family became forfeited, and the title of Duke of Northumberland was conferred, by EDWARD VI., upon John Dudley, Earl of Warwick; but that nobleman having forfeited his life and honours by treason against Queen MARY, in 1553, her majesty was pleased to advance, by letters patent, dated 30 April, 1557,

THOMAS PERCY, son of the attainted Sir Thomas Percy, to the degree of a baron, by the title of Baron Percy of Cockermouth; and on the day following, his lordship was created Earl of Northumberland, with remainder to Henry Percy, his brother, &c. His lordship m. Anne, 3rd dau. of Henry Somerset, 2nd Earl of Worcester, and had,

I. Thomas, who d. young, in 1560.
I. Elizabeth, m. to Richard Woodroffe, of Wolley, co. York.
II. Lucy, m. to Sir Edward Stanley, K.B. of Tong Castle, and had two daus., co-heirs, of whom, the elder, Frances, m. Sir John Fortescue, Knight and Baronet of Salden, and is now represented by VISCOUNT GAGE, as her heir-general; and the younger, Venetia, who was a renowned beauty, m. Sir Kenelm Digby, Knight of Gothurst, and was represented by the late Sir Stephen-Richard Glynne, Bart., as her heir-general.
III. Jane, m. to Lord Henry Seymour, and d. s. p.
IV. Mary, prioress of the English nunnery at Brussels.

This nobleman having conspired against Queen ELIZABETH, was beheaded at York, 22 Aug. 1572 (avowing the pope's supremacy, and affirming the realm to be in a state of schism, and those obedient to ELIZABETH no better than heretics), when his honours would have fallen under his attainder, but for the reversionary clause in favour of his brother,

HENRY PERCY, who s. as 8th earl. His lordship m. Katherine, eldest dau. and co-heir of John Nevill, Lord Latimer, by whom he had eight sons and three daus.,

I. HENRY, his heir. II. Thomas, who d. unm. in 1648.
III. William, who d. unm.
IV. Charles (Sir, Knt.), a military commander, d. s. p. in 1628.
V. Richard (Sir, Knt.), also a soldier of reputation, d. at Angers, in 1648.
VI. Alan (Sir), K.B., m. in 1608, Mary, dau. and heir of Sir John Fitz, of Fitzford, Devon, but d. s. p. in 1613. His widow m. 2ndly, the Hon. Thomas Darcy; 3rdly, Sir Charles Howard; and 4thly, Gen. Sir Richard Granville.
VII. Joscelyne (Sir, Knt.), d. unm. in 1631.
VIII. George, d. unm. I. Anne.
II. Lucy, m. 1st, to Sir John Wotton; and 2ndly, to Sir Hugh Owen, Knt.
III. Eleanor, m. to Sir William Herbert, K.B., 1st Lord Powis.

The earl having been committed to the Tower for participating in a supposed plot in favour of MARY, Queen of Scots, was found dead in his bed there, slain by three bullets from a pistol, 21 June, 1585, when he was s. by his eldest son,

HENRY, 9th earl, K.G. This nobleman, after every effort to involve him in the Gunpowder Plot proved in vain was "cast (says Osborne) into the Star Chamber," by which he was sentenced to a fine of £30,000, with imprisonment in the Tower during his majesty's pleasure, and actually suffered several years' incarceration. His lordship m. Dorothy, sister of Queen ELIZABETH's favourite, Essex, and widow of Sir Thomas Perrot, Knt., and had (with two daus., Dorothy, m. to Robert Sidney, 2nd Earl of Leicester, by whom she was mother of Algernon Sidney, the patriot; and Lucy, m. to James Hay, Earl of Carlisle) two sons, ALGERNON, and HENRY. His lordship dying 5 Nov. 1632, was s. by his eldest surviving son,

ALGERNON, 10th earl, K.G., who had been summoned to parliament, in the lifetime of his father, 1626, as Baron Percy. This nobleman took an active part, during the civil wars, against CHARLES I., but was entirely free of any participation in his murder. He subsequently promoted the Restoration. His lordship d. 13 Oct. 1668, and was s. by his only son (by Lady Elizabeth Howard, 2nd dau. of Theophilus, 2nd Earl of Suffolk),

JOCELINE, 11th earl. This nobleman m. Elizabeth, youngest dau. of Thomas Wriothesly, Earl of Southampton, lord high-treasurer of England, by whom he left at his decease, 21 May, 1670, an only dau., ELIZABETH, of whom presently, but no male issue, when the honours created by Queen MARY ceased. CHARLES II. created, in 1674, his 3rd natural son, by the Duchess of Cleveland, George-Fitzroy, Earl, and afterwards Duke of Northumberland; but that nobleman dying without issue, in 1716, those dignities expired. In the meantime, one James Percy, a trunk-maker, claimed the honours of the Percy family, and so annoyed the House of Lords that their lordships at last sentenced him to wear a paper in Westminster Hall, declaring him "A false and impudent pretender to the earldom of Northumberland."

LADY ELIZABETH PERCY, only surviving child and heir of Joceline, 11th and last earl, was, in her own right, BARONESS PERCY. Her ladyship m. 1st, when only 14 years of age (1679), Henry Cavendish, Earl of Ogle (son and heir of Henry, Duke of Newcastle), who assumed the name of PERCY; but his lordship d. without issue, 1 Nov. 1680, and her ladyship m. in 1682 (3rdly, it is stated, but she appears to have been only contracted to Thomas Thynne, Esq. of Longleate, who was assassinated, 12 Feb. 1681-2), Charles Seymour, Duke of Somerset, who also assumed, by preliminary engagement, the surname and arms of PERCY, but from that stipulation he was released when her grace attained majority. By this marriage the duchess had thirteen children; the eldest surviving of whom,

ALGERNON SEYMOUR, was summoned to parliament, in 1722, on the death of his mother, as BARON PERCY. He m. Frances, dau, and co-heir of the Hon. Henry Thynne, by Grace, his wife, dau. of Sir George Strode, Knt., serjeant-at-law, and had an only child, ELIZABETH. His lordship inherited the Dukedom of Somerset in 1741; and was created Baron Warkworth, of Warkworth Castle, co. Northumberland, and Earl of Northumberland, 2 Oct. 1749, with remainder to

SIR HUGH SMITHSON, Bart. (see family of SMITHSON, at foot), who m. in 1740 his grace's only surviving child, the Lady Elizabeth Seymour, and had,

HUGH, his successor.
ALGERNON, 2nd Lord Lovaine, and 1st Earl of Beverley, father of GEORGE, 5th DUKE OF NORTHUMBERLAND.

Sir Hugh, upon the demise of his father-in-law, the Duke, in 1750, s. to the honours limited to him, obtaining, in the same year, an act of parliament to allow himself and his countess to assume the surname and arms of PERCY. His lordship was installed a knight of the Garter in 1757, and created Earl Percy and DUKE OF NORTHUMBERLAND, 22 Oct. 1766. His grace obtained the Barony of Lovain, of Alnwick, with remainder to his 2nd son, LORD ALGERNON PERCY, by patent dated 28 Jan. 1784. He d. in 1786, and was s. by his eldest son,

HUGH, 2nd duke, K.G., b. 14 Aug. 1742, who s. to the baronies in fee upon the decease of his mother. He m. 1st, 2 July, 1764, Anne, dau. of John, Earl of Bute, which marriage produced no issue, and was dissolved by act of parliament, in 1779; and 2ndly, 23 May, in the same year, Frances-Julia, 3rd dau. of Peter Burrell, Esq. of Beckenham, co. Kent, and sister of Peter, late Lord Gwydir, by whom (who d. 28 April, 1820) he left,

HUGH, 3rd duke. ALGERNON, 4th duke.

CHARLES HUGH, b. 18 May, 1878.

Lineage.

This family paternally derives from the ancient Milesian sept of O'Reilly, princes of Lower Brefney (see BURKE'S Landed Gentry). Of the O'Reillys, Gough, in his additions to Camden, makes the following observations:—"Whence Mr. Camden received his information that the O'Reillys derive from the Ridleys does not concern us to inquire. Spencer falls into a similar error; he derives the Mac Mahons from the Veres of England, because the one in Latin, and the other in Irish, have some affinity in sound to the name of boar pig in those languages; but both are equally the impositions of etymology. Before the English got footing in Ireland, the O'Reillys of Cavan, the Mac Mahons of Monaghan, the Mac Guires of Fermanagh, the O'Donels of Donegal, with other chieftains in their own septs, were tributaries to O'Nial of Ter Oen. Such of the descendants of those chieftains as I have conversed with seem rather to glory in their Milesian extraction. When Hugh O'Nial threw off his allegiance to Queen ELIZABETH, he also threw off the title of Earl of Tyrone, saying, that "he would rather be O'Nial of Ulster, than King of Spain.'"

Lineage

The ancient and very historic family of the O'Donells of Tirconnell, deduce their descent from Connell "Gulban," (son of Nial, "of the nine hostages" Rex Hib. A.D. 379-405), from whom was named the territory of Tirconnell, now Donegal. It is recorded in the life of St. Patrick that he converted Connell to Christianity, and marked upon his shield the sign of the Cross, which is still the family arms. In those early ages the line of Connell contributed eight kings to Ireland, and forty saints to the Irish calendar, the most eminent of whom were St. Columba and St. Adamnan. The curious reliquary of the former, called the "Caah" or "Cathach," now in the R. I. Academy, has been preserved for thirteen centuries in the O'Donell family, and is the property of Sir George, the present baronet. The descent of this family from Connell is recorded in the Irish genealogies; but down to the 12th century, it is mainly mere entries of names, with some few exceptions. Dalach, chief of Tirconnell, who was killed in 868, was a famous warrior in his day; as was his son, Egneghan Mor who d. in 901. From Egneghan's son, Donell, the family name O'Donell was derived. Cathbar O'Donell (who d. 1106), got made the antique metal case for the Cathach, as the inscription upon it sets forth.

In the year 1200, Egneghan O'Donell was chief of Tirconnell. After seven years of constant action, he was killed 1207, and was s. by his son,

DONELL MORE, who, during his thirty-four years of rule, was one of the most powerful chiefs of his time. He received tribute from all Connaught and the greater part of Leinster and Ulster. He d. 1241; and by his wife, Lessarina, dau. of Cathal Crovderg O'Connor, King of Connaught (she d. 1282), he left three sons, who in turn succeeded,

* David was son of Alexander Ochterlony, laird of Pitforthy, who left four other sons, who all died without male issue, and two daus., of whom Jane m. John Lyon, Esq. of Forgandenny and Castle Lyon, N.B.

I. MELAGHLIN, who, by letter dated 7 July, 1244, was invited by HENRY III. to aid him in his invasion of Scotland; it begins: "Rex, O'Donel regi de Terconnell salutem." He was killed in defending the ford of Assaroe against the English, under the Lord Justice, Maurice FitzGerald, 1247.

II. GODFREY, who defeated the English at the battle of Craedran, in Sligo, 1257, where he and Maurice FitzGerald fought hand to hand, and both subsequently died of the wounds received in that encounter. Taking advantage of Godfrey's illness from his wounds, the O'Neills, the year following, invaded Tirconnell, but the gallant chief had himself carried on a bier at the head of his men, fought and defeated his enemies near Letterkenny, and there, after his victory, d. upon the bier, 1258, s. p.

III. DONELL OGE, chief from 1258 to 1281; he was reputed in the Irish Annals to be the ablest commander of his day; he was, however, defeated and killed at the battle of Desartcreaght, in Tyrone, 1281, and was s. by his son,

HUGH O'DONEL, chief from 1281 to 1333. In 1313, he was summoned by EDWARD II. for like aid against the Scots: "Rex, dilecto sibi Eth O'Donnuld Duci Hibernicorum de Tirconil, salutem." Again in the following year, 14 March, a similar letter was addressed to him. He d. 1333, and was s. by his eldest son, Conor, who on his death in 1342, was s. by his brother,

NIAL GARVE, who the year following, was deposed by his nephews, Angus and Shane, the sons of Conor, who s. as chiefs, till the death of Shane 1380. Nial d. 1348, and by his wife, Duvcova, dau. of Cathal More O'Connor (she d. 1395), left several sons, of whom the eldest,

TURLOGH, "of the Wine," s. Shane. He had a prosperous rule of forty-two years. In 1422 he resigned, and took the habit of a monk in the monastery of Assaroe, where he d. the following year. He m. four times, and had eighteen sons. By his 1st wife, Grace, dau. of Nial More O'Neill, he had two sons, Nial Garve and Nachton; the eldest,

NIAL GARVE O'DONEL, s. 1422, and in the following year built the castle of Ballyshannon. In an engagement with the English in Meath 1434, he was taken prisoner and confined in Dublin till 1439, when he was transferred to the Isle of Man, where he d. the same year; and was s. by his brother Nachton. Nial, by his wife, Fionnuala, dau. of Calvagh O'Connor, left, besides other sons,

HUGH ROE O'DONEL, who s. 1461; resigned 1497; d. 1505. By his wife, Fionnuala, dau. of Conor O'Brien, chief of Thomond (she founded the abbey of Donegal 1474), he had sons, Con, who became chief 1497, and d. same year s. p., and

By his 1st wife, Judith, dau. of Con More O'Neill, and sister of Con "Bocach," Earl of Tyrone, he left two sons, Calvagh and Hugh. She d. 1535. By his three subsequent wives, Ellenor, dau. of Gerald, 8th Earl of Kildare; Margaret, dau. of MacDonnell, of Islay; and a dau. of Maguire, of Fermanagh: he left a numerous progeny. His eldest son,

CALVAGH O'DONEL, became chief 1555; defeated his brother Hugh and Shane O'Neill 1557; taken prisoner by the latter 1559; ransomed 1561; dropped dead off his horse 26 Oct. 1566. By his wife, Janet, dau. of Archbold, 4th Earl of Argyle, and widow of McLean, of Douart, he left three sons, CON, of whom presently; Calvagh, killed 1588; Donogh, killed 1583; and a dau., Mary, wife of Shane O'Neill. He was s. by his brother,

SIR HUGH O'DONEL, who the year following, made his submission, and was knighted by Sir Henry Sydney, the lord deputy: he was a consistent friend and ally of the English; on the escape of his famous son, Hugh Roe, from captivity, he resigned 1592, and d. 7 Dec. 1600. By his wife, Mary (the "Inneen dhu"), dau. of James, son of Alexander MacDonnell, Lord of the Isles, he left, besides other children,

He was buried with regal ceremony in Valladolid, d. s. p.

II. RORY, who soon after the battle of Kinsale made his submission, and was created Earl of Tirconnell and Baron O'Donel, of Donegal, 4 Sept. 1603. In 1607 an alleged plot was charged against him and the Earl of Tyrone, and believing their ruin was resolved on, they embarked for the Continent. Rory d. at Rome 1608, aged 35, and was buried in the church of San Pietro in Montorio. By his wife, Bridget, dau. of Henry, 12th Earl of Kildare (she m. 2ndly, Viscount Kingsland), he left a son and dau.

Lineage.

The ancient and far-spreading family of Ogilvy derives its pedigree from the Maormors of Angus, one of the seven great hereditary chiefs of Scotland (the origin of whom is lost in antiquity), who in the 11th century exchanged the Celtic appellation of "Maormor" for the Norman title of "Comes," or its Anglo-Saxon equivalent, "Earl."

GILCHRIST, Earl of Angus temp. King MALCOLM CANMORE, and was s. by his son,

GILIBREDE, 2nd Earl of Angus; whose 3rd son,

GILBERT, assumed the name of OGILVY, from lands of that denomination in his possession of which, with Pourie and Pynnethin, in Angus, he received a grant from King William the Lyon in 1172. From this Gilbert Ogilvy descended

SIR PATRICK OGILVY, of Wester-Powrie, a man of great merit and fortitude. He adhered always firmly to the interest of King ROBERT BRUCE, and, for his loyalty and faithful services, obtained from that great monarch a grant of the lands of Ketins. He left issue, two sons: 1 Alexander, his heir; and 2 Patrick de Ogilvy, of Wester-Powrie The next in this descent was,

PATRICK DE OGILVY, of Wester-Powrie, 2nd son of Sir Patrick, who obtained from his nephew, Sir Patrick Ogilvy, of Ogilvy, son of his brother Alexander, to him and Margery his wife, the lands of Wester-Powrie. By marriage with the above Margery, only dau., and at length sole heiress of Robert Ramsay, of Auchterhouse, he had one son, by whom he was succeeded,

WALTER OGILVY, of Wester-Powrie, afterwards of Auchterhouse, hereditary sheriff of Forfar, who came to the possession of that great estate and dignity upon the death of his uncle, Sir Malcolm Ramsay, of Auchterhouse, about the year 1365. He left two sons, ALEXANDER, who d. unm., and WALTER. The 2nd son,

SIR WALTER OGILVY, of Auchterhouse, high-sheriff of Forfar, who was a man of great worth and merit, and lost his life in the following manner:—Duncan Stuart, natural son of Alexander, Earl of Buchan, having entered the shire of Angus, at the head of a lawless gang of robbers, in order to plunder the country, the sheriff, accompanied by his uterine brother, Walter Lighton, ancestor of that family, and a numerous posse of country people, overtook the robbers at a place called Glenbreith, in Angus, where, after a smart skirmish, Sir Walter with his brother, and about sixty of his followers, were killed on the spot, in 1391. He left three sons: 1 Sir Alexander, of Auchterhouse, ancestor of the OGILVYS of Auchterhouse and of the OGILVYS, EARLS OF FINDLATER AND SEAFIELD; 2 Sir Walter, of Lintrathen, Lord High Treasurer of Scotland, ancestor of the Earls of Airlie, &c., &c.; and, 3 SIR JOHN, of Inverquharity, which

SIR JOHN OGILVY obtained from his brother, Sir Walter the Treasurer, the lands and barony of Inverquharity, in Forfarshire, in 1420. He afterwards got a charter from William, Earl of Angus, of the lands of Crief, in the barony of Kirriemuir, dated the 31st of March, 1422. He had three sons,

I. ALEXANDER, his heir.
II. Walter, heir to his nephew. III. Thomas, of Clova.

The eldest son,

ALEXANDER OGILVY, 2nd baron of Inverquharity, who lost his life at the memorable battle of Arbroath, which he fought against the Lindsays, 23 Jan. 1445, got a charter from Alexander Seton, Lord of Gordon, of the lands of Newton, Herdhill, Kinnordie, Balbredie, &c., in the barony of Kirriemuir, dated the 15th of June, 1434; also a charter from Nichol Borthwick, of the lands of Ladinch, &c., dated the 15th of March, 1438; and a charter from William Gifford, of Balnagarroch, of the lands of Little Migry, &c., dated the 1st of April, 1439; all which are confirmed by a charter under the great seal. By his wife, Janet, dau. and heiress of William Towers, of Barnton, he had a son,

ALEXANDER OGILVY, 3rd Baron of Inverquharity, who d. young, circa 1454, and was s. by his uncle,

DAVID OGILVY, 6th Baron of Inverquharity. There appear to have been disputes and family feuds "betwixt the twa houses of Innercarritee and Clova sen the battle of Arbroath;" but these were all at last accommodated by the interposition of friends, who were mutually chosen as arbitrators by both parties, and who having adjusted all their differences, the brothers entered into a mutual bond of friendship, whereby they bound themselves and their posterity, to live in peace and amity with one another, dated the 24th of May, 1524. This eloquent and distinguished lawyer, called to the Irish bar in 1836, made a Queen's Counsel in 1849, and appointed Queen's Serjeant in 1859, was Solicitor-General for Ireland from 1860 to 1861, and Attorney-General from 1861 to 1865. In the latter year, he became one of the Justices of the Court of Common Pleas, and, in 1868, was constituted Lord High Chancellor of Ireland. He sat in the House of Commons, as Member for Tralee, from 1863 to 1865. In 1870, he was raised to the Peerage of the United Kingdom as Baron O'Hagan, of Tullahogue, in the county of Tyrone, deriving the designation of his title from the ancient seat of his clan.

Lineage.

The clan of O'Hagan (O'h Aedhagain) had their seat in ancient times at Tullahogue, in the county of Tyrone, and in this Fortress, according to Dr. O'Donovan, in his Tribes and Customs of Hy Fiachrach, the Kings of Ulster were solemnly inaugurated into the style and authority of the O'Nial, by O'Hagan, chieftain of Tullahogue, in whom vested the hereditary right to perform the ceremony. "All that remains," says Lewis (in the Topographical Dictionary of Ireland, A.D. 1837), "of the regal city of the O'Hagans is the fortress of Tullahogue, covered with brambles and full-grown forest trees, which forms part of the glebe of Desert-Creight. Close adjoining it is the site of the ancient priory of Donarisk, founded by one of the O'Hagans, A.D. 1294, of which nothing remains but the cemetery, the ancient burial place of the clan. Notices of the O'Hagans are to be found scattered through The Annals of the Four Masters, and are met with in most of the old Irish historical MSS. O'Dugan, in his metrical account of the Chiefs of Tir-Eogain, commemorates the O'Hagans, and Connellan, the translator of The Annals, in his notes on O'Dugan's poem, describes the O'Hagans as "Chiefs of Tullaghoge, in Tyrone, in the barony of Dungannon;" and as "Brehons to the O'Neills, Princes of Tyrone."

The O'Loghlen family have been for centuries settled in Clare, and, before the coming of the English into Ireland, ruled over the territory in the north of Clare, now known as the Barony of Burren. In 1394, when the chiefs and princes of Clare submitted to and did homage to Richard II., the seven chiefs or princes of Thomond that attended at Quin, to do homage to the Earl of Nottingham, who on that occasion represented the Sovereign, were, O'Brien, MacNamara, MacMahon, MacGorman, O'Dea, O'Connor, and O'Loghlen, and in the submission, which is on record in the Rolls of Chancery in Ireland, Rory (Ross) O'Loghlen, who then attended and did homage to the Earl of Nottingham for his territory, is described as "Nationis sure de Burren capitaneus." When, subsequently, in the reign of Queen Elizabeth, Thomond was, in 1585, made Shire-Ground, the territory of Burren, belonging to the O'Loghlens, was constituted into the Barony of Gragans, and, in the official survey then made of the castles in Thomond, twenty castles are enumerated as belonging to the O'Loghlen family. Afterwards, in the civil wars of the 17th century, the territory of Burren was confiscated by the Cromwellian government, and, on the restoration, it was not restored to the O'Loghlen family.

The history of the illustrious house of BUTLER, of ORMONDE, is, in point of fact, the history of Ireland from the time of the Anglo-Norman invasion. For ages their story fills the pages of the Irish annals, from the advent of Theobald Fitz-Walter, in the reign of HENRY II., down to the death of James, 2nd Duke of Ormonde, at Avignon, in 1745.

In 1643 he was appointed Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, and during the great civil war administered that high office with consummate ability. At the Restoration his fidelity and eminent services were requited. In 1660 he had conferred on him the titles of BARON BUTLER of Llanthony, and EARL OF BRECKNOCK, in the peerage of England, and in the following year that of DUKE OF ORMONDE in Ireland. JAMES, 2nd Duke of Ormonde, K.G., b. 29 April, 1665, inherited the Scottish barony of Dingwall from his grandmother. This nobleman was appointed lord of the bedchamber in 1685, and, serving in the army, participated in the victory over the Duke of Monmouth, at Sedgemoor. He was afterwards, however, one of the first to join the standard of the Prince of Orange, and when that prince ascended the throne his grace obtained the Garter, and was constituted HIGH-CONSTABLE OF ENGLAND for the coronation. He attended WILLIAM into Ireland, was at the Boyne, and subsequently entertained his majesty most sumptuously at his castle in Kilkenny. In 1693 he was at the battle of Landen, where he received several wounds, and had a horse shot under him. In 1702, his grace was constituted, by Queen ANNE, COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF of the land forces sent against France and Spain, when he destroyed the French fleet, sunk the Spanish galleons in the harbour of Vigo, and took the fort of Redondella; for which important services he received the thanks of both houses of parliament. In 1711 he was declared CAPTAIN-GENERAL and COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF of the land forces in Great Britain, or which were or should be employed abroad in conjunction with the troops of the allies, which post he held till the treaty of Utrecht, in 1713, in which year he was made warden of the Cinque Ports, and constable of Dover Castle. But in two years afterwards (GEORGE I. having in the interim succeeded to the throne), his grace was impeached (21 June, 1715) of high treason, and having retired into France, was attainted in Great Britain, when his estates became forfeited, his (English) honours extinguished, and parliament passed an act which annulled the regalities and liberties of the county palatine of Tipperary, vested his lands in the crown, and proclaimed a reward of £10,000 for his apprehension should he attempt to land in Ireland. But the same parliament passed also an act (24 June, 1721) to enable the duke's brother, the Earl of Arran, to purchase the estate, which his lordship did accordingly. This great but unfortunate nobleman m. 1st 15 July, 1682, Lady Anne Hyde, dau. of Laurence, Earl of Rochester, and had by her a dau., Mary, who d. 1688. His grace m. 2ndly, 3 Aug. 1685, Lady Mary Somerset, eldest surviving dau. of Henry, 1st Duke of Beaufort, and left two daus,

The duke resided in his exile chiefly at Avignon. He had a pension from the court of Spain of 2,000 pistoles and d. 16 Nov. 1745, when his remains were brought into England, 22 May, 1746, and deposited in the family vault, in HENRY VII.'s chapel, Westminster Abbey. At this period it was supposed that the duke's honours were all forfeited under the act of attainder passed by the English parliament, but it was subsequently decided that no proceeding of the English legislature could affect Irish dignities. According to that decision, his grace's brother, the Earl of Arran, was

CHARLES, 14th Earl of Ormonde, and 3rd duke and marquess de jure; but his lordship never enjoyed, assumed, or was aware of possessing those dignities. He m. Elizabeth, 4th and youngest dau. of Thomas, Lord Crewe of Stene, but had no issue. He d. 17 Dec. 1758, when his own honours became extinct, with the marquessate and dukedom of Ormonde. The Scottish barony of Dingwall, and the barony of Butler, of Moor Park, passed to the heir-general, and the Irish earldoms of Ormonde and Ossory, with the viscounty of Thurles, and the Barony of Arklow, supposed to have fallen under the English attainder, became dormant, but were really vested in John Butler, Esq. of Kilcash, the heir male of the family, (see the descendants of Walter, 11th lord), as

JOHN, 15th Earl of Ormonde (de jure), but he did not assume the honours. He s. to the estates of the family upon the death of the Earl of Arran's only surviving sister. He m. April, 1763, Miss Stoney, grand-dau. of General Webb and niece of the Earl of Powis, by whom, who m. 2ndly, 24 Oct. 1771, Rev. Alleyne Waller, LL.D. of the Hermitage, co. Lineage.

This family was established for a long series of generations at Montauban, in Languedoc, France. By documents that escaped the persecution to which the Protestants were exposed towards the end of the sixteenth century (that have been deposited, and are now extant, in the Heralds' Office), we are enabled to go back as far as Pierre de Pechels, Baron of La Boissonade and St. Cran Barré, who, to exonerate himself from the national burdens (from which only the noblesse were exempt), produced a certificate, bearing date June 18, 1547, to prove his descent, and to secure himself and family from those requisitions to which every subject of inferior rank was exposed. This Pierre m. Louise, dau. of De Fumel. Their eldest son,

Samuel de Pechels, b. 1644, m. to the Marquise Thierry de Sabonnierres, was forced to fly on the revocation of the edict of Nantes, leaving behind him two daus., who had been placed in a convent, and educated in the Roman-catholic faith, and who received from Louis XIV. a grant of their father's lands. These ladies m. the one to M. de Cahuzac, and the other, M. de St. Sardos, of Castle Serrasin; and their estates are still in the possession of their descendants. M. de Pechels settled in Ireland, where he lived many years, supported by a pension granted by King William III., and by considerable remittances from his daughters. A full account of Mr. Pechell's sufferings, with a translation of his manuscript memoir, is to be found in the volume published by the Sussex Archæological Society in 1875. His only son,

Jacob Pechell, Esq., b. in 1679, embraced the military profession, and served in Spain and Flanders. SIR JAMES PERROTT, a scion of the ancient Perrott family to which belonged the celebrated Sir John Perrott, lord deputy of Ireland, temp. Queen ELIZABETH, was, in reward for eminent diplomatic services, created a Baronet, 1 July, 1716, with limitation (it is stated, but the patent is not registered in the College of Arms), to his nephew,

Lineage.

Traditionally, the Drummonds derive their descent from an Hungarian in the suite of EDGAR ATHELING, but the importance of the family was based on the royal alliance of the Lady Annabella Drummond, dau. of Drummond of Stobhall, with King ROBERT III. From that period the Drummonds held a high position in North Britain, and were raised to the peerage in 1487, by the title of Lord Drummond, and eventually obtained the Earldom of Perth, in 1605.

MAURICE (son of George, son, it is stated, of ANDREW, King of Hungary), commander of the vessel in which Saint MARGARET, afterwards Queen of MALCOLM III., embarked for Hungary, but was driven into the Frith of Forth, was made Steward of Lennox, and received from King MALCOLM the lands of Drymen or Drummond, which gave name to the family. In memory of his safe pilotage of Queen MARGARET, his descendants bear; or, three bars wavy, gules. His great-great-grandson,

MALCOLM BEG DRUMMOND (temp. ALEXANDER II.), m. Ada, dau. of the Earl of Lennox, and grand-dau. of the Steward of Scotland, and was grandfather of

SIR JOHN DRUMMOND, of that ilk, thane of Lennox, a brave defender of the liberties of Scotland, at the beginning of King EDWARD I.'s usurpation. He was summoned to Parliament as one of the Barones Majores Regni. His son,

SIR MALCOLM DRUMMOND, obtained from King ROBERT I., immediately after the battle of Bannockburn, lands in Perthshire for his services in that battle, in which, by his advice, caltrops were used as a defence against the English horse, in memory whereof his descendants bear caltrops upon a compartment with their arms, and the motto "Gang warily." His grandson,

SIR JOHN DRUMMOND, m. in 1360, Mary, dau. of Sir William de Montifex, heiress of Stobhall, and of large possessions in Perthshire. His eldest dau. ANNABELLA, a lady of great beauty and merit, m. King ROBERT III., was crowned with him at Scone, in September, 1390, and is ancestress of Queen VICTORIA, and of most of the crowned heads of Europe. Her brother,

SIR MALCOLM DRUMMOND, of that ilk, m. Isabel Douglas, Countess of Marr, sister and heiress of Thomas, Earl of Douglas and Marr, the hero of Otterburn. He dying without issue A.D. 1403, was s. by his next brother,

SIR JOHN DRUMMOND, Justiciar of Scotland. His son,

SIR WALTER DRUMMOND, m. Margaret, dau. of Ruthven of that ilk; and was father of

SIR MALCOLM DRUMMOND, of Cargill and Stobhall, who m. in 1445, Mariot, dau. of Sir David Murray, of Tullibardine, by his wife Isobel, dau. of Sir John Stewart, Lord Innermeath and Lorn. His son,

SIR JOHN DRUMMOND, of Cargill and Stobhall, ambassador extraordinary to England, and a distinguished statesman, was, from the success of his embassy, created, January 29, 1487, Lord Drummond; he m. a dau. of the Earl of Crawford. His eldest son, Malcolm, died before him unm.; his 2nd son, William, Master of Drummond, also d. before him, leaving issue a son Walter, Master of Drummond who d. before his grandfather, leaving issue a son DAVID, who, s. as 2nd Lord Drummond. The first Lord Drummond's third son, Sir John Drummond, of Innerpeffrey, was capt. of the Scotch guards of King Henry II. of France, and was ancestor of several considerable families: his second dau. m. the Master of Angus, whose son the Earl of Angus m. Queen MARGARET, whose dau. by him, Margaret, Countess of Lennox, was mother of HENRY, Lord Darnley. The 1st Lord Drummond d. in 1519, and was s. by his great-grandson,

DAVID, 2nd Lord Drummond, who m. 1st, Margaret, dau. of Alexander, Duke of Albany, and grand-dau. of King JAMES II.; 2ndly, Lilias, dau. of the Lord Ruthven. His 2nd son, James, Lord Maderty, was ancestor of the Viscounts Strathallan (see STRATHALLAN). His elder son,

PATRICK, 3rd Lord Drummond, m. Elizabeth, dau. of the Earl of Crawford, and left two sons; the eldest,

JAMES, 4th Lord Drummond, Ambassador from King JAMES VI., in Spain, was created, on the 11th of February, 1605, EARL OF PERTH, with remainder to heirs male whatsoever. He left an only dau. Jean, m. to the Earl of Sutherland, and was s. by his brother,

JOHN, 2nd Earl of Perth, an officer of Montrose. He m. Lady Jane Ker, and left three sons, James, his successor; John, of Logie Almond; and William, afterwards Earl of Roxburghe, ancestor of John, Duke of Roxburgh (see ROXBURGH). The eldest son,

JAMES, 3rd Earl of Perth, m. Lady Anne Gordon, dau. of George, Marquess of Huntly, by whom he had two sons, James and John (of whom hereafter as Earl or Duke of Melfort), and Anne Countess of Erroll.

JAMES, the eldest son, succeeded as 4th Earl of Perth, in 1675; he was married three times; 1st, to Lady Jane Douglas, dau. of the 1st Marquess of Douglas, who was mother of James, Lord Drummond, his heir (attainted in 1715); 2ndly, to Lilias Drummond, dau. of James Drummond, of Machany, and widow of the Earl of Tullibardine, by whom he had JOHN; and 3rdly, to Lady Mary Gordon, dau. of Lewis, Marquess of Huntly, who was mother of Edward Drummond, in whom the Perth branch ended in 1760. The Earl of Perth was chancellor of Scotland, and was created DUKE OF PERTH by JAMES II., at St. Germains, in 1695, with the same limitation as the earldom; that title was confirmed in France by LOUIS XIV., in 1701, on the death of King JAMES, at the same time as the titles of the Dukes of Berwick, Fitzjames, Albemarle, and Melfort. His lordship d. at St. Germains, 11 May, 1716, and was s. by his son, James, Lord Drummond, who was styled 2nd Duke of Perth and who, on account of his attainder, as Lord Drummond, in 1715, could not succeed to the Earldom of Perth, which became then legally dormant. This

JAMES, Lord Drummond, attainted in 1715, 2nd Duke of

Perth, m. Lady Jane Gordon, dau. of the 1st Duke of Gordon, by whom he had two sons, JAMES, and JOHN. He d. at Paris in 1720, and was s. by the elder,

JAMES, 3rd Duke of Perth, who was wounded at the battle of Culloden, and d. unm. during his passage over to France, on board the French frigate "La Bellone," 13 May, 1746. He was attainted in that year, but the attainder did not take effect upon him on account of his death, but it did upon his brother, Lord John Drummond, who had been included in the same act of attainder, as "the person taking upon himself the rank and style of Duke of Perth, and the person taking upon himself the rank and style of Lord John Drummond." This

LORD JOHN DRUMMOND, in whom the Drummond estates became forfeited in 1746, d. without issue in 1747. It was for him that the regiment of Royal Scotch, in the French service, was raised. He was s. by his uncle,

JOHN DRUMMOND, 5th Duke of Perth, who d. without issue in 1757; his last brother,

EDWARD, succeeded, but d. without issue in 1760, and in him ended all the male descendants of James, 4th Earl of Perth, at whose demise, in 1716, the earldom became dormant, on account of the previous attainder of his son, Lord Drummond. The representation of the Earldom of Perth thereupon reverted to his second cousin,

JAMES DRUMMOND, of Lundin, grandson (by his 1st wife, Sophia, heiress of Lundin) of John Drummond, afterwards Earl and Duke of Melfort, who was 2nd son of James, 3rd Earl of Perth. This James Lundin assumed the name of DRUMMOND, and became chief of that house; he was served heir to the last earl in Edinburgh in 1766, and thereupon assumed the title of Earl of Perth. He m. Lady Rachel Bruce, and had a son,

JAMES DRUMMOND, 11th Earl of Perth, to whom the Drummond estates were restored in 1785, by the court of session and parliament, he being the nearest male heir of Lord John Drummond, in whom the estates became forfeited in 1746; and was created a British peer, as Lord Perth, in 1797; he d. in July, 1800, leaving an only dau., Sarah-Clementina Drummond, Lady Willoughby de Eresby, who d. 26 Jan. 1865. At his lordship's decease, the representation of the Earldom of Perth, which is limited to heirs male whatsoever, reverted to

JAMES LEWIS,* 4th Earl and Duke of Melfort, great-grandson of John Drummond, Earl and Duke of Melfort, by his 2nd wife, Euphemia Wallace, as 12th Earl of Perth, who d. Sept. 1800, and was s. by his brother,

CHARLES-EDWARD DRUMMOND, 5th Earl and Duke of Melfort and 13th Earl of Perth. In 1803 soon after Baron Perth's death, began proceedings in the Court of Sessions for the recovery of the lands lordship and barony of Drummond and earldom of Perth; but not having been able to be served heir male of the earls of Perth, his action was dismissed in 1808, as he could produce no title by service to sue, and being a Roman Catholic prelate, he could not bring his claim before the House of Lords. He d. at Rome in 1840, and was s. by his nephew (the only son of his deceased younger brother, Leon Maurice, by Luce Elizabeth de Lon guemare his wife),

GEORGE DRUMMOND, 6th Duke de Melfort and 14th Earl of Perth, Comte de Lussan, in France, now EARL OF PERTH and MELFORT.

His lordship, in 1841, established before the Conseil d'Etat of France, and the Tribunal de la Seine, his pedigree from the Earls Dukes of Perth and Melfort, and his right of succession to the French honours of Duke de Melfort and Perth, Comte de Lussan and Baron de Valrose, &c.

His lordship had one sister, Lady Lucy-Clementina Davies, to whom the precedency of an earl's daughter was granted by royal licence in 1853. Her ladyship m. 8 Sept. 1823, Francis-Henry Davies, Esq., registrar of the Court of Chancery, and d. 27 April, 1879, having had issue,

Francis-Maurice-Drummond Drummond, barrister-at-law, has assumed the surname of DRUMMOND, in lieu of his patronymic, DAVIES.

Frances-Clementina-Drummond Davies, m. 4 Feb. 1857, B. Remington Williams, Esq., eldest son of B.-B. Williams, Esq.

I. Elizabeth-Gordon, b. 9 July, 1861.

Sir Thomas s. his cousin as 5th bart., 25 March, 1872.

Lineage.

This, in the male line, is a branch of the Oxfordshire family of DASHWOOD, in the female, it represents the old Baronets PEYTON.*

SIR SEWSTER PEYTON, 2nd baronet of the 4th creation, master of the buckhounds to Queen ANNE; m. Anne, 2nd dau. of George Dashwood, Esq. of London, and sister of Sir Robert Dashwood, Bart. of Northbrooke, and had issue,

I. THOMAS, his heir. II. Henry, d. unm. in 1741.

I. Anne, m. to Richard Dashwood, Esq. of Cockley Cley.

II. MARGARET, m. to her cousin, George Dashwood, Esq., and by him (who d. in 1762) had issue,

* There is a doubt as to the extinction of the first baronetcy of the ancient male line of Peyton, which had no less than four baronetcies conferred upon it. The original baronetcy was that of Peyton of Isleham, created in favour of Sir John Peyton, in 1611, on the foundation of the order. His son and successor, Sir Edward, the 2nd bart., had, with other issue, Thomas, whose 2nd son, Robert Peyton, settled in Virginia, in America, and his descendant and representative, Colonel John-Lewis Peyton, now claims the Baronetcy of Isleham. See in reference to the subject a remarkably interesting book published by him, entitled "The Adventures of my Grandfather." (See also BURKE'S Extinct Baronetage.)

1 HENRY DASHWOOD, heir to his uncle.
2 James Dashwood, rector of Doddington; m. 1st, Lady Martha Knollys, dau. of Charles, Earl of Banbury, which lady d.s.p. in 1799; and 2ndly, Sarah, dau. of the Rev. David Lloyd, LL.D., by whom he left at his decease, 6 Oct. 1815, aged 76, an only surviving son,
GEORGE-HENRY, b. in 1801; who m. Marianne, dau. of W.-H. Turner, Esq.

Lineage.

Fuller says, that the Pilkingtons were originally of Rivington, co. Lancaster, and a right ancient family; that they were gentlemen of repute in the shire before the Conquest, at which time, the chief of the house being sought after by the Norman soldiery, was fain to disguise himself as a thrasher in a barn; from which circumstance, partly alluding to the head of the flail falling sometimes on the one, and sometimes on the other side, and occasionally on himself, he took for the motto of his arms "Now thus! now thus!" The first of the family we find upon record is

LEONARD PILKINGTON, of Pilkington Tower, co. Lancaster, ving in the reign of HENRY I.; from him descended

THE RIGHT REV. JAMES PILKINGTON,* one of the six divines appointed to revise the Book of Common Prayer, who was consecrated Bishop of Durham in 1560. In 1569, the northern rebels coming to Durham, tore the Bible and English Liturgy into pieces, and the bishop would most probably have shared a similar fate could they have found him. His lordship subsequently instituted a suit-at-law against Queen ELIZABETH, for the lands and goods of the rebels attainted in the bishopric, and would have succeeded had not parliament interfered, and adjudged these forfeitures, pro hac vice, to the crown.

The eldest son,

ROBERT CLIVE, to whom England, in a great measure, owes the establishment of her dominion in India, was born at the family seat of Styche, Shropshire, 24 Feb. 1726, and in 1744 entered the Civil Service of the East India Company; but nature had fitted him for a soldier, and in 1747 he quitted the civil for the military service of the Company. His first distinction was at the siege of Pondicherry, and at the attack of Devi Cotah, where as a lieutenant he commanded the forlorn hope that stormed the breach. In 1751 he took the city of Arcot, and after a long defence of it, he signally defeated, before its walls, the enemy who came to retake it. His health then required him to return to England, but his repose there was short. On his return to India he found the whole nation aroused by the atrocity of the Black Hole of Calcutta. Clive terribly avenged the deed on its perpetrator, the Surajah Dowlah, Subah of Bengal. He stormed Calcutta, and once master of it, brought the Surajah to immediate terms. He then entered into a plot to dethrone him, and with reckless energy carried out the conspiracy, the success of which was achieved by the famous battle of Plassey, fought the 23rd June 1757, Clive there, with 3,000 men, utterly routed the Surajah Dowlah, at the head of troops amounting to 70,000. The result was the execution of the Surajah, the installation of his minister Meer Jaffier in his place, and the rapid ascendancy of the British power. Clive became Governor of Calcutta, and then turning his arms against the Dutch defeated them by sea and land, and compelled them to a treaty of infinite benefit to the East India Company. In 1761 Clive again came to England, and was elevated to the peerage of Ireland, 15 March, 1762, by the title of Baron Clive of Plassey, co. Clare; his knighthood of the Bath dates in 1764. In 1765 some disturbances in India brought him once more there as President of Bengal; these he settled to the Company's advantage, and finally returned to England in 1767. He was M.P. for Shrewsbury from 1760 to the end of his life, but seldom spoke, though on one memorable occasion he successfully vindicated his character and conduct, with indignant and impressive eloquence. His untimely and lamented death was the work of his own hand, while in a fit of temporary insanity. Lord Clive m. 18 Feb. 1753, at Madras, Margaret, dau. of Edmund Maskelyne, Esq. of Purton, co. Wilts (see BURKE'S Rise of Great Families), and left,

Lineage.

The Pringles of Stichill are the heirs male and representatives of the Pringles or Hop-Pringles of Craiglatch and Newhall, in the co. Selkirk. They are believed to have been very old cadets of the house of Smailholm, though the exact period at which they came off has not been ascertained; but the circumstance may not only be inferred from the close vicinity of their land to the Selkirkshire properties of that family, but appears to have been a matter of local notoriety, and is stated as a fact in several public and family documents. It is most probable that the first of the family was either one of the five sons of Robert Pringle, of Smailholm, who m. Elizabeth Dishington, or a younger son of David Pringle, the next laird of Smailholm. In the crown rentals of Ettrick Forest for 1485 and 1490, we find the lands of Craiglatch in the possession of William Hop-Pringle, and Alexander his son, their cautioner being James Pringle, of Smailholm. For four generations we can only trace their names through their titles of succession, though nothing can be more accurate. The first was

William Pringle, of Craiglatch, also designated of Whittoun, in Roxburghshire, who had a charter of the lands of Hut, in that county, in 1492, and crown tacks of Craiglatch, in 1485 and 1490. He was s. by his son,

Alexander Pringle, of Craiglatch, (crown tack 1490), who was s. by his son,

Robert Pringle, of Craiglatch (seisin 1512), s. by his son,

Alexander Pringle, of Craiglatch, (retour 1539), s. by his son,

George Pringle, of Craiglatch, in whose behalf the tenure of his Ettrick Forest lands was changed to a feudal holding by charter, 1587. In these times of violence and insecurity, the names of the Scottish lairds of small properties in the border counties are rarely to be met with in the public records of national transactions, except when they had the good fortune to distinguish themselves in some of the greater battles with their English foes, in which they were so frequently required to bear their part; for, by the tenure of their lands, they were required to hold themselves always ready to obey the summons of their sovereign to attend his host, with their sons and retainers. But if we turn to the pages of the criminal records, we shall find their names constantly occurring, sometimes on the lists of assize, but more frequently as aggressors or sufferers. The arm of the law was generally weak, so they were tempted by the chance of impunity to acts of violence; or, when they had themselves suffered injury they were too apt to seek redress by acts of retaliation, which knew no bounds except the extent of their immediate power or opportunity. If, therefore, we look into those interesting records of Scottish manners during the reign of the Stewart monarchs, Pitcairn's Criminal Trials, for the names of the Pringles of Craiglatch, we shall not look in vain. In 1555, we find Alexander Hop-Pringle, of Craiglatch, and George, his son, convicted of a bloody assault upon David Hop-Pringle, son of Alexander Hop-Pringle, of Trynliknows, their nearest neighbour. Again, in 1563, William Cranston, of that ilk, and James, his brother, were cited to appear at Selkirk, for invading the lands of Williamhope, belonging to Alexander Pringle, of Craiglatch, with the purpose of taking his life, and, on not finding him, taking revenge by hamstringing and slaying three of his cattle. It is probable that the arm of the law failed to reach them, for afterwards we find Alexander of Craiglatch, with his brother George, and his son George, cited to answer for a deed of tenfold retaliation, by entering the adjoining lands of Hawthorne, belonging to Cranston, and slaying forty of his cows. The crime of march-treason, or holding communication with English foemen, and countenancing them in their depredations, was, in those days, not unfrequent on the borders; and George Pringle, of Craiglatch, with his eldest son George, had the misfortune, on account of it, to incur the penalties of the law, which involved the forfeiture of their lands of Craiglatch. Of this forfeiture, Sir James Pringle, of Smailholme had interest to obtain a gift, with the view of restoring them to the family, which he did in 1601, but in consequence of the burdens incurred by these misfortunes, one half, called The Knows, was alienated in 1617 to James Pringle, of Whytbank, and the remaining half, called Newhall, became from that time the designation of the family. George Pringle had two sons,

George, his heir.

Robert, ancestor of the Stichill family, of whom hereafter.

The elder son was

George Pringle, of Newhall, to whom the property was restored. His name occurs in various deeds and family writs. By his wife, Margaret Ker, he had two sons and two daus.,

James, his heir. Robert, who afterwards succeeded.

George Pringle was s. about 1650, by his eldest son,

James Pringle, of Newhall, and he by his son,

Robert Pringle, of Newhall, who, in 1667, executed a deed, settling his estate on his own heirs male; failing whom, on the heirs male of his uncle, Robert Pringle, in Carberton; and on failing them, on the heirs male of Robert Pringle, of Stichill. He d. s. p. soon afterwards, and was s. by his uncle,

Robert Pringle, first designed "in Carberton," and afterwards of Newhall. He d. s. p. in 1672, when his estate of Newhall went, in terms of his nephew's destination, to the next heir male, his cousin, Robert Pringle, of Stichill, the first baronet of that family. We therefore return to the second son of the first George of Newhall,

Robert Pringle, whom we find designed of Bartingbush He was bred a writer to the signet, rose to eminence in his profession, and became agent for most of the principal families in his own district of the country. JAMES, who s. to the honours.
Isabel, who became eventually Countess of Mar.

The countess was divorced from Lord Douglas, and m. 2ndly, Sir John Swinton, of Swinton; and dying in 1385, her son,

JAMES, became Earl of Douglas and Mar. This distinguished chieftain making an incursion into England, in 1388, penetrated to the gates of York; whence returning spoil-laden, his lordship had many skirmishes with the English at Newcastle, in one of which, at Otterburn, 19 Aug. in that year, a furious conflict ensued, wherein Lord Douglas fell; but the Percys eventually sustained a signal defeat. The earl married, but, as he left no legitimate issue, his only sister, Isabel, succeeded as Countess of Mar, while the Earldom of Douglas passed to the male heir of that family. Lord Douglas and Mar left as illegitimate son,

SIR WILLIAM DOUGLAS, upon whom he had conferred the Barony of Drumlanrig, co. Dumfries, by charter, sans date. This Sir William, who was a very eminent commander in the wars with England, was deputed ambassador to that kingdom, in 1412, to solicit the release of JAMES I. of Scotland, and obtained a charter, dated 30 Nov. 1412, from that monarch, all written in the king's own hand, upon vellum, confirming to himself and his heirs the several baronies of Drumlanrig, Hawick, and Selkirk. Lineage.

This family is maternally descended from

SIR JOHN RAMSAY, Knt. of Balmain and Fasque, co. Kincardine, who was created by JAMES III. a lord of parliament in 1433, and sat under the title of LORD BOTHWELL. Adhering, however, to his unfortunate sovereign, against whom the nobles of Scotland rebelled, his lordship was outlawed, and his estates subjected to confiscation, in 1848, by the 1st parliament of JAMES IV., while that monarch conferred the dignity of Earl of Bothwell upon Hepburn, Lord Hailes, whose descendant became the third husband of MARY, Queen of Scots, and was the last of his family that enjoyed the peerage. In 1498, the disgraced lord received, however, a royal pardon, but under the simple designation of John Ramsay; and he obtained, at the same time, some lands in the cos. of Forfar and Wigtoun; which favours were followed by a charter, in 1510, of the Barony of Balmain. The grandson of this personage,

GILBERT RAMSAY, Esq., was created a Baronet of Nova Scotia, 3 Sept. 1625, and the title passed, in regular succession, to

Lineage.

The first of this family, of whom there is any record, is UCHTRED, whose son, ADAM, early in the 13th century, obtained the lands of Knox and Ranfurley, in the shire of Renfrew, from Walter, High Steward of Scotland, and took the name of Knox. It is presumed that this Uchtred is identical with Uchter de Dunbar, 2nd son of Walter, Earl of Dunbar, who m. the Princess Adama, dau. of the Earl of Huntingdon, of the blood royal of Scotland, and that their son, Adamus, on his marriage with the Lady Sybella, dau. of Walter, or Alan Steward, High Steward of Scotland, obtained the barony of Knox, and assumed the name. ADAM KNOX was s. by his son,

JOHN DE KNOX, of that ilk, and of Ranfurley, whose name, and that of his successors, are frequently to be found in the Charterlory of the Abbey of Paisley, as witnesses to various deeds concerning the Abbey. He m. Isabel, dau. and co-heiress of Robert, Lord Ros, of Wark, and was s. by his son, UTRED DE KNOX, who, A.D. 1260, had a charter from ALEXANDER III., still extant in the public records of Scotland. In 1422, SIR JOHN DE KNOCKS, Lord of Ranfurley, &c., m. Elizabeth Maxwell, only child of Sir Robert Maxwell, of Calderwood, by Elizabeth, co-heiress of Sir Robert Dennistoun. John Knox, the Reformer, whose father, William Knox, m. a lady of the name of Sinclair, and purchased the property of Gifford, in East Lothian, is presumed to have been the great grandson of this Sir John De Knocks. The descendants of the Reformer's brother, William, minister of Cockpen, are given in BURKE'S Commoners, p. 1436, Trotter of Ballindean.

UCHTRED KNOX, of that ilk, and of Ranfurly, son of Sir John De Knocks, resigned in 1474 the lands of Knox, Ranfurly, and Griff Castle to the Crown, and received a new grant of the same (the charter being still extant in the Registry Office of the Great Seal in Edinburgh). Lineage.

The maternal descent of Lord Rayleigh having been already detailed under that of the Duke of Leinster, we proceed at once with his paternal family, STRUTT.

In the year 1240, when a charter of freedom was obtained by the Helvetic confederacy,

GODFRIED STRUTZ DE HINKELRED, of Under Walden, chief of the Swiss auxiliaries, received the honor of knighthood, but in subsequent dissensions, being upon the less fortunate side, Sir Godfried was obliged to seek an asylum in England, where it it appears he took up his permanent abode, and from him descended

SIR DENNER STRUTT, Knt. of Little Warley Hall, co. Essex, who was created a baronet in 1640. This gentleman, a staunch adherent of the royal cause, fell fighting under its banner during the civil wars. Sir Denner m. 1st, Dorothy, dau. of Francis Stasmore, Esq., M.P.; 2ndly, Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Thomas Wodehouse, of Kimberley, in Norfolk; 3rdly, Mary, dau. and heir of Thomas Chapman, Esq. of London; and 4thly, Elizabeth Cuss. Lineage.

The surname of READE, which is derived from the Saxon word Redd, or Reod, denotes the Saxon origin of the family. This ancient name is mentioned in Froissart's Chronicles, but chiefly in the Harleian MSS. of the British Museum.

At a remote period the name appears associated with Border exploits, and the fame of Sir Percy Read has been commemorated by Sir Walter Scott in "Rokeby."

From the parent Northumberland stem issued, four hundred years ago, the progenitor of the family of Read of Oxfordshire, viz.,

RIDDELL OF RIDDELL.

RIDDELL, SIR WALTER-BUCHANAN, of Riddell, co. Roxburgh, Recorder of Maidstone, and late Judge of the Whitechapel County Court; b. 8 Aug. 1810; s. his father as 10th baronet, April, 1819; m. 18 Aug. 1859, Alicia, youngest dau. of the late William Ripley, Esq., H.M. 52nd infantry.

Lineage.

The family of Riddell is of Norman extraction. The roll of Battle Abbey includes, as the CONQUEROR's followers, "Avenell, Ros, et Ridell." Avenels and Rosses thereafter figure in Scottish records; the former, like the Riddells, in Roxburghshire, and with the corresponding name of Gervase; while Thierry, in his Histoire de la Conquête de l'Angleterre par les Normands (vol. ii., pp. 414-417), further specifies "Ridel" and "Revel" among the Norman conquerors.

The first of this family explicitly proved settled in Scotland is GERVASIUS DE RIDEL, the earliest high-sheriff of Roxburghshire. He is witness to one of the oldest Scotch documents, the well-known Inquisitio Principis Davidis, in 1116, by the great Norman colonizer of Scotland, and to other legal deeds. From Gervasius descended,

WALTER DE RIDDALE, or RIDEL, who had a charter from DAVID I. of the lands of Liliesclive and Whitunes, co. Roxburgh, to hold "sicut unus baronum meorum." This is admitted to be the oldest charter extant by a Scotch king to a laic, having been granted sometime between 1124 and 1153. It was legaliy transumed, owing to its antiquity and frailty, by order of Lord Gray, justice-general of Scotland, in a high justiciary court held at Jedburgh, in 1506. The lands thereby conveyed were subsequently denominated the "Baronies of Riddell and Whitunes," in part from the possessors; and the latter, "Domini de Riddell" and "Whitunes." From the brother and heir of the above Walter,

SIR ANSKETIN DE RIDALE, or RIDDELL, lineally descended,

QUINTIN "DE RIDALE, Dominus de eodem," in 1421, s. by his grandson,

JAMES "DE RIDALE, de eodem," whose son,

JOHN "DE RIDALE, de eodem," d. about 1552, and was s. of his grandson,

I. JOHN RIDDELL, of Riddell, who, 14 May, 1628, during his father's lifetime, was created a Baronet of Nova Scotia, with a grant of lands there, to be denominated "the Barony and Regality of New Riddell." He m. 1st, Agnes, dau. of Sir John Murray, of Blackbarony, by whom he had issue,

Lineage.

The family of Rodney is one of very ancient descent. So far back as the time of the Empress MAUD, we find WALTER

DE RODENEY receiving a grant of the manor of Backwell and other lands, named after him Rodney Stoke, in the co. of Somerset. Walter's son, SIR HENRY DE RODENEY, steward to Prince Henry, HENRY II.'s son, was father of SIR RICHARD DE RODENEY, slain at Acres, 4th RICHARD I., and from him lineally descended, through intermarriages with Gifford, FitzWarine, Bluet, Cressie, Chedder, St. John, Hungerford, &c. (as set forth in the Visitation of Somersetshire, A.D. 1623, and also in the family pedigree. in the possession of Lord Rodney, written out by Sir Edward Rodney, grand-uncle of the great Admiral).

Lineage.

This family, of English origin, was brought into Ireland towards the close of Queen ELIZABETH's reign, by WILLIAM PARSONS, who rose to great wealth and power, and was eventually one of the lords-justices of that kingdom,—his immediate line being, however, extinct, we shall briefly detail it, and then proceed with that of the existing family.

WILLIAM PARSONS settled in Ireland about the close of Queen ELIZABETH's reign, and being a commissioner of plantations, obtained very considerable territorial grants from the crown. In 1602, he succeeded Sir Geoffrey Fenton as surveyor-general of Ireland; in 1610, he obtained a pension of £30 a-year, English, for life; in 1611, he was joined with his brother, Laurence, in the supervisorship of the crown lands, with a fee of £60 a-year for life; in 1620, presenting to the king, in person, surveys of escheated estates, in his capacity of surveyor-general, he received the honour of knighthood, and was created a Baronet, 10 Nov. in the same year. Sir William Parsons represented the co. of Wicklow in parliament in 1639, and was constituted lord-deputy, with Lord Dillon, in 1640; but that nobleman being soon removed, he was resworn with Sir John Borlace, master of the ordnance. He continued in the government until 1643, when he was removed, charged with treason, and committed to prison, with Sir Adam Loftus and others. LAWRENCE PARSONS, Esq., brother of the Lord-Justice Sir William Parsons, was appointed attorney-general for the province of Munster in 1612, when he received the honour of knighthood from the Lord-Deputy St. John. In 1620, Sir Lawrence was joined in the surveyor-generalship with his brother, and appointed, four years afterwards, 2nd baron of the Exchequer. He m. Jane, dau. of — Malham, Esq. of the co. of York; and dying 8 Sept. 1628, was s. by his eldest son,

THE HON. CHARLES ERSKINE, 4th son of John, 7th earl, who m. in 1638, Mary, 3rd dau. of Sir Thomas Hope, Bart. of Craig Hall, and was s. by his eldest son,

I. CHARLES ERSKINE, Esq. of Alva, who was created a Baronet of Nova Scotia, 30 April, 1666. Sir Charles m. Christian, dau. of Sir James Dundas, of Arniston, by whom he had four sons and one dau.,

Sir Charles was s. by his eldest son,

SIR JAMES. This gentleman dying unm., the title devolved upon his brother,

SIR JAMES, who inherited the peerage at the decease of his maternal uncle,

ALEXANDER WEDDERBURN (eldest son of the above-mentioned Peter Wedderburn, Lord Chesterhall). This eminent person was b. at Edinburgh, 13 Feb. 1733, and was early distinguished by those powers of reason and eloquence which ultimately raised him to the highest dignity of the state. Well adapted to the legal profession by great natural talents and indefatigable perseverance, he was called to the Scottish bar when only nineteen years of age, and was coming rapidly into notice, when an illiberal attack from the bench disgusting him with his own country, determined his seeking a wider sphere for his professional pursuits. He became a member of the Inner Temple in 1753, and under the tuition of Macklin, endeavoured, with more than doubtful success, to lose his national accent. He was called to the English bar in 1757, and by his talents soon won the applause of Lord Camden, and the assistance of Lords Bute and Mansfield, pleading in the Douglas and Hamilton cause, and successfully defended Lord Clive. He was appointed solicitor-general, 26 Jan. 1771; promoted to the attorney-generalship in 1778; and elevated to the bench, as lord-chief-justice of the Court of Common Pleas, in 1780, when he was created Baron Loughborough, of Loughborough, co. Leicester (14 June, 1780). In 1793, his lordship was appointed first commissioner for keeping the great seal; and 27 Jan. 1793, constituted LORD-HIGH-CHANCELLOR OF GREAT BRITAIN. Surrey*, with remainder, in default of male issue, to his nephew, Sir James St. Clair-Erskine; and after him, to John Erskine, Esq., the brother of Sir James; and 21 April, 1801, he was advanced to the dignity of EARL ROSSLYN, co. Mid-Lothian, with the same remaindership. His lordship m. 1st, in 1767, Betty-Anne, dau. and heir of John Dawson, Esq. of Morley, co. Family of Westenra.

The WESTENRAS, descended from the family of VAN WASSENAER of Wassenburgh, were of great antiquity in Holland; and they bore the augmentation of the Sea-horse, in reference to the valour of an ancestor who, during the Duke of Alva's campaigns, was actively employed against the enemy, and undertook to swim across an arm of the sea with important intelligence to his besieged countrymen. Of the branch still remaining in Holland, was Jacob Aaron Van Wassenaer, a noble, who m. Lady Amelia Bentinck.

Lineage.

The distinguished family of Sackville is derived (by Collins) from Herbrand de Salkavilla, who occurs in "Odericus Vitalis" as resident in Normandy, A.D. 1079, and who is stated to have returned to the Norman duchy after having accompanied the CONQUEROR to England. Passing over the earlier generations of this eminent house, which our limited space precludes us entering on, we come to

Kent, and subsequently for co. Surrey. His lordship, before he attained the title, was concerned in a fatal duel, which is thus mentioned by Lord Clarendon:—"He entered into a fatal quarrel upon a subject very unwarrantable, with a young nobleman of Scotland, the Lord Bruce, upon which they both transported themselves in Flanders, and attended only by two chirurgiens placed at a distance, and under an obligation not to stir but at the fall of one of them, they fought under the walls of Antwerp, when the Lord Bruce fell dead upon the place; and Sir Edward Sackville (for so he was then called), being likewise hurt, retired into the next monastery, which was near at hand." He was for some time in the Diplomacy, having been appointed Secretary of Legation at Rio de Janeiro, 8 Aug. 1859, and at Athens, 21 Oct. 1859. He was re-appointed Secretary of Legation at Rio, 21 Oct. 1861, and made Secretary of Legation at Lisbon, 10 June, 1864.

Lineage.

This family flourished for several generations in the co. of Devon, before it removed into Cornwall; and in the 15th century, A.D 1433, we find Walter Eliot returned amongst the gentry of that shire. Both Prince and Fuller refer to the family, and the pedigree entered in the Visitation of Cornwall of 1620 has a shield of twelve quarterings. It commences with

JOHN ELIOT, Esq., who m. Joan, dau. of John Bonvile, of Chute, co. Devon. He was father of EDWARD ELIOT, Esq. of Coteland, co. Devon, who m. Alice, dau. of Robert Guye, Esq., and had four sons: I. JOHN, of St. Germans; II. Walter; III. THOMAS; IV. Robert, d. 1562; the 3rd son, THOMAS ELIOT, Esq., m. Joan, dau. of John Norbrooke, Esq., and his son,

RICHARD ELIOT, Esq., was seated at Port Eliot, co. Cornwall, which was the site and lands of the Priory of St. Germans, obtained from the Champernownes in exchange for property at Cotelands. Here Richard Eliot was resident "in great hospitality" at the time of Carew's survey of Cornwall. He m. Bridget, dau. and co-heir of Nicholas Carswell, Esq. of Hatch; and dying in 1609, was s. by his son,

SIR JOHN ELIOT, Knt. of Port Eliot, M.P. for the co. of Cornwall, one of the greatest Statesmen and Patriots of his time. This distinguished personage was born at Port Eliot, 20 April, 1590; and entered Parliament as M.P. for St. Germans in Cornwall in 1614. A strenuous opponent of the court, he was appointed by the House of Commons one of the managers of the impeachment of the Duke of Buckingham; for which, with Sir Dudley Digges, the other manager, he was committed to the Tower, but was soon afterwards released. In 1628, Sir John Eliot, with other members of the House of Commons was again sent to the Tower for refusing to answer before the privy council for parliamentary conduct; and on the 29th of May in that year, an information was exhibited in the Star Chamber against Sir John and his companions for their undutiful speeches; on which charge being afterwards arraigned before the court of King's Bench, they were adjudged to be imprisoned during the king's pleasure, and to give security for their good behaviour, and Sir John was also fined £2000. These gentlemen were subsequently offered their freedom, upon the terms of making submission, but they rejected the proposition; and Sir John Eliot died and was buried in the Tower, 27 Nov. 1632. His "Biography" compiled by John Forster from the original Eliot papers at Port Eliot, is an admirable history of the memorable epoch, in which he acted so prominent and patriotic a part. "Sir John Eliot, the most eloquent leader of the first three parliaments of CHARLES I., deserved, if ever man did" (we are quoting Mr. Forster's words) "that the constitutional historian of England should have singled him out and set him apart, as the most illustrious confessor in the cause of liberty whom the time produced." Sir John m. 1611, Rhadigund, dau. and co-heir of Richard Gedy, Esq. of Trebursey, Cornwall, and by her (who d. 1628) had four daus. (the eldest, Elizabeth, wife of the Hon. Col. Nathaniel Fiennes), and five sons, of whom

JOHN, the eldest son, M.P. for St. Germans, s. to the estates, m. Honora, dau. of Sir Daniel Norton, of Southwick, Hants, and dying 1685, left an only son,

Coryton; and 2ndly, Elizabeth, dau. and (by the death of her only brother) co-heiress of the Right Hon. James Craggs, postmaster-general; he d. in 1722, and was s. by his only son,

* This motto is a graceful and seamanlike allusion implying perfect rectitude. "Thus" is the word of direction given to the steersman by the quartermaster when the ship is going in a perfectly correct course. For instance, if he wish the vessel to proceed to the right, he says "Starboard;" if to the left: "Port;" but if the ship be going quite as it ought to do, he says "Keep thus," or "Thus" simply, corrupted in nautical pronunciation into "Theis.'

Lineage.

The founder of this branch of the Cecil family,

ROBERT CECIL, (youngest son of William Cecil, Lord Burleigh, Queen ELIZABETH'S celebrated High-Treasurer, by his 2nd wife, Mildred, dau. of Sir Anthony Cooke,) who received the honour of knighthood in 1601, was sworn of the privy council, appointed secretary of state, and subsequently master of the Court of Wards in the reign of ELIZABETH, but did not attain the honours of the peerage until after the accession of JAMES I., when he was created 13 May, 1603, Baron Cecil, of Essendine, co. Rutland; advanced to the Viscounty of Cranborne, co. Dorset, 20 Aug. 1604; and created Earl of Salisbury, 4 May, 1605; during which periods he continued secretary of state, but succeeded subsequently, at the decease of the Earl of Dorset, to the lord-high treasurership. The Earl of Salisbury m. Elizabeth, sister of the unhappy Henry Brooke, Lord Cobham, and d. worn out with business, 24 May, 1612. In his last illness, he was heard to say to Sir Walter Cope, "Ease and pleasure quake to hear of death; but my life, full of cares and miseries, desireth to

x m Addlestone son of Earl Fellow

be dissolved." He had some years previously (1603) addressed a letter to Sir James Harington, the poet, in pretty much the same tone. "Good Knight," saith the minister, "rest content, and give heed to one that hath sorrowed in the bright lustre of a court, and gone heavily on even the best-seeming fair ground. 'Tis a great task to prove one's honesty and yet not mar one's fortune. You have tasted a little thereof in our blessed queen's time, who was more than a man, and, in truth, sometimes less than a woman. I wish I waited now in your presence-chamber, with ease at my food and rest in my bed. I am pushed from the shore of comfort, and know not where the winds and waves of a court will bear me. I know it bringeth little comfort on earth; and he is, I reckon, no wise man that looketh this way to heaven." His lordship was s. by his only son,

Lineage.

The surname of this family was assumed from Lumley on the Weare, in the bishopric of Durham, and the family deduces its lineage from

LIULPH (son of Osbert de Lumley), who m. Algetha, dau. of Alfred, Earl of Northumberland, by Edgina, dau. of ETHELDRED II. This Liulph, who was a nobleman of great popularity in the time of the CONFESSOR, was murdered by means of Leoferiso, chaplain to Walcher, bishop of Durham; a crime soon after avenged by the populace of Durham, who sacrificed both the chaplain and the prelate to their just resentment. The eldest son of Liulph, assuming the surname of LUMLEY, succeeded as

UCHTED DE LUMLEY, and from him lineally descended

ROGER DE LUMLEY, who m. Sybil, one of the daus. and co-heirs of the great Northumberland feudal baron, HUGH DE MOREWIC, and was s. by his son,

SIR ROBERT DE LUMLEY, who m. Lucia, one of the three sisters and co-heirs of William, Robert, and Thomas de Thweng, Barons Thweng, and was s. by his son,

SIR MARMADUKE DE LUMLEY, Knt., who first assumed the arms of the ancient house of Thweng, which arms the family have ever since borne. This Sir Marmaduke was s. by his eldest son,

This nobleman was a deputy-governor of Berwick-upon-Tweed, under Henry de Percy, Earl of Northumberland, in the 15th of RICHARD II., and obtained royal permission, in the 16th of the same reign, to convert his manor-house of Lumley into a castle. His lordship joining subsequently, however, in the rebellion of Thomas de Holland, Earl of Kent, was attainted, and died in the field of battle. He had m. Eleanor, dau. of John, Lord Nevil of Raby, and sister of Ralph, Earl of Westmoreland, and left, with three daus., four sons; of whom the youngest, Marmaduke, was successively master of Trinity Hall, Cambridge, and chancellor of that university, bishop of Carlisle (1430), treasurer of England (1446), and bishop of Lincoln (1451). Thomas, the eldest son, d. in 1404, and was s. by his brother,

SIR JOHN DE LUMLEY, Lord Lumley, who doing homage in the 6th of HENRY IV., had livery of all castles, manors, and lands, whereof Sir Ralph Lumley, his father, was seised at the time of his attainder, and was restored in blood by parliament in 1411. This nobleman was actively engaged in the French wars of HENRY IV., and in those of HENRY V.; in the 10th year of whose reign he lost his life with Thomas, Duke of Clarence, at the battle of Beaugé, in Anjou, (13 April, 1421), and was s. by his only son

This nobleman, adhering faithfully to the king during the civil wars, made Lumley Castle a garrison, and being a principal commander under Prince Rupert, marched with that general into the west of England, and was at the siege of Bristol, where he remained until its surrender, in 1645. SCOTT.

SCOTT, SIR WILLIAM MONTEATH, of Ancrum, co. I. William-Michael-Augustus, b. 19 June, 1865; d. 21 Jan. 1870.

I. Constance-Emily.

Lineage.

The founder of the ancient and far-spreading family of Scott in North Britain,

UCHTREDUS FILIUS SCOTI, was witness to the foundation charters of the abbeys of Holyrood House and Selkirk, by DAVID II., in the years 1128 and 1130. It does not appear, however, that this person had assumed the name of Scot as a surname, but that he was designated "filius Scoti," as a son of a Scotsman, to distinguish him from other persons called Uchtred, which was then a common Christian name beyond the Tweed. This Uchtred was father of

RICHARD, who did assume the surname of Scot, and was living in the reigns of MALCOLM IV. and WILLIAM the Lion. This Richard Scot founded the priory of St. Andrews, and d. in 1158, leaving two sons,

Richard, ancestor of the Dukes of Buccleuch; and

SIR MICHAEL SCOTT, a person of great power in the co. of Fife about the middle of the twelfth century. This gentleman m. Margaret, dau. of Duncan Syras, of that ilk, by whom he had one son, DUNCAN, with whose consent, and that of his lady, Sir Michael made a donation to the monastery of Dunfermline, "pro salute animæ suæ," &c., &c., of the lands of Gascumenfers, in Fifeshire. The great-grandson of this Sir Michael,

SIR MICHAEL SCOTT, 2nd Baron of Balweary, traditionally named the Wizard, was a person of very extraordinary abilities, and made a remarkable figure at the time in which he lived. After pursuing, with unusual success, the study of languages, belles-lettres, and mathematics, at home, Sir Michael travelled into France, where he remained several years, and thence passed into Germany, where he spent some time at the court of FREDERICK II. The extraordinary discoveries of Sir Michael in the science of chemistry obtained him the character of a magician; and to this day there are marvellous tales told in Scotland of his communings with the Evil One. In the year 1290, Sir Michael Scott and Sir Michael de Wemyss were, by the states of the nation, deputed ambassadors extraordinary to the court of Norway, to bring home Queen MARGARET, then the undoubted heir to the crown of Scotland, and who was to have espoused Prince Edward of England; but, unfortunately, her majesty died at Orkney, on her way to Scotland, in 1291. Sir Michael, who is honourably mentioned by Dante, in his Inferno, d. about the year 1294, and from him lineally descended

SIR WILLIAM SCOTT, taken prisoner at Flodden, and

SIR WILLIAM SCOTT, of Balweary, who, in the lifetime of his father, was put in possession of the lands and barony of Innertiel, and was long designated by that title. This gentleman had two sons,

WILLIAM, who succeeded him; and

ANDREW SCOTT, Esq., who obtained from his father the lands and barony of Glendoick, co. Perth, with the express provision that, after his death, those lands should return to the family of Balweary. This Andrew lived temp. Queen MARY, and obtained the lands of Kirkstyle, co. Perth, which subsequently became the title of his family. The great-grandson of this Andrew,

I. JOHN SCOTT, Esq. of Kirkstyle, obtaining a charter under the great seal, in 1670, of the lands and barony of Ancrum, assumed that designation, and was created a Baronet of Nova Scotia, 27 Oct. 1761, with remainder to his heirs male generally. Lineage.

The branch of the Palmer family, to which Lord Selborne belongs, has been seated at Wanlip Hall, in the county of Leicester, since 1624, when that estate was bought by a younger son of John Palmer, Esq. of Marston, in Staffordshire, an estate which for some generations previously had been in the Palmer family, as well as one of a much earlier date still, near Doncaster in Yorkshire, and from this stock the family before us primarily deduces. The present head of the family in the male line is GEORGE PALMER, Esq. of Nazing, Essex, and in the female line the family is represented by Sir Archdale

Palmer, Bart., who still owns the old seat of Wanlip Hall, in the county of Leicester.

SETON OF ABERCORN.

SETON, SIR BRUCE-MAXWELL, of Abercorn, co. Linlithgow, D.L. for Tower Hamlets, b. 31 Jan. 1836; s. his father as 8th baronet, 11 June, 1869.

Lineage.

The present SIR BRUCE-MAXWELL SETON, Bart., is remarkably descended, being direct heir-male of Sir Alexander Seton, 1st Lord Gordon, the husband of Elizabeth Gordon, heiress of Gordon and Huntly, to whose ancient barony, created before 7 Oct. 1437, as can be instructed by legal evidence recently recovered, he has a claim. The other and subsequent stock of Gordon and Huntly, elevated so much higher in the peerage, are Setons too in the male line (a surname they came to exchange for Gordon), but of a younger branch, the lawful male primogeniture being now incontrovertibly in Sir Bruce-M. Seton. (See SETON OF PITMEDDEN.) His remote ancestor, Sir Alexander Seton, eldest son of Alexander, 1st Earl of Huntly, and 2nd Lord Gordon was excluded from the earldom and estates, by an unjustifiable transaction well vouched. The late Duchess and Countess of Sutherland was likewise by male descent a Seton, and a cadet again of the junior higher-ennobled stock; while the Earl of Eglinton, as heir-male of the ancient and illustrious house of Seton and Winton, to whose honours he is entitled, owing to their being saved by a specialty from the forfeiture in 1715, is chief of all the preceding.

From a curious MS. entitled The Genealogy and Historie of the illustrious House and sirname of Seton, collected and sett furth by Sir Richard Maitland of Lethington, a sister's son of the said house (father of the famous secretary so memorable in the days of the unhappy MARY, and ancestor of the noble house of Lauderdale) we extract the following particulars regarding the origin of this family—"There were few surnames in Scotland (says Sir Richard) before the time of King MALCOLM CANMORE, except that, after the manner yet used in the highlands, they used their father's names subjoined to their own in the form of a patronymic. The said King MALCOLM gave to his nobles and gentlemen particular surnames, some by reason of their offices, and some after the names of the lands which they possessed, and some for other causes. Amongst whom, the predecessor of this family got the name of Seton, as the chronicles testify, by occasion of the possession of the lands of that name, which was given to the lands by reason that the toun thereof is situate hard upon the sea.

"I cannot find the proper name of him who first received the surname; the first whose proper name I find is called Dougal Seton; he was son, or else nephew, to him who first received the surname, and lived in the time of King ALEXANDER I."

The son of this Dougal, Secher de Seton, is found a witness to the charters of King DAVID I., and died about the year 1130; his descendant.

SIR CHRISTOPHER, or CHRISTALL, SETON, mentioned by the Maitland MS. already quoted, as having been made a knight in the days of Sir William Wallace, "and styled (for his many valiant deeds against the Englishmen) Good Christall Seton. At the field of Methven, King ROBERT BRUCE being taken captive, his taker crying in derision, 'Who will help the new-made king?' the said Christall rescued the king, and beat down them who had him in hands. He m. the sister of the said King ROBERT, who gave him the double-tressure about his coat of arms in like manner as it is borne by the king himself. At length he was taken and carried to London, where he was most cruelly put to death, which, when King ROBERT heard, as he was walking upon a little hill beside the town of Dumfries, after much sorrow and regret for the unworthy death of so noble a knight, in the same place where he was walking founded a chapel in honour of the Virgin Mary; and in remembrance of the said Sir Christall, founded a priest to do service therein perpetually, and to pray for the said Sir Christall, mortifying five pounds yearly out of the barony of Caerlaverock, to pay for the sustentation of the said priest. The chapel was commonly called Christall's Chapel, and was standing undecayed in 1552." Sir Christopher having m. as above stated, Christian Bruce, sister of King ROBERT I., and relict of Gratney, 11th Earl of Mar (she m. 3rdly, Sir Andrew Moray, of Bothwell, regent of Scotland), left an only son,

SIR ALEXANDER SETON, who was restored by his uncle, King ROBERT BRUCE, to all the lands possessed by his progenitors in Scotland, and obtained several other important grants and privileges from the same monarch. He was made governor of Berwick-upon-Tweed, and has been justly celebrated for his defence of that place against EDWARD III., and the whole English army, in 1333, when he submitted to having his son, Thomas Seton, a hostage in the hands of the English, put to death before his eyes, rather than deliver up his charge Sir Alexander m. Christian, dau. of Cheyne, of Straloch by whom he had,

I. Alexander, who headed an army in an attempt to oppose the landing of EDWARD BALIOL, in Fife, near Kinghorn, in 1332, and fell in that conflict.

II. Thomas, hanged before the town of Berwick, as above stated, in 1333.

III. William, drowned in an attack on the English ships at Berwick, in 1333.

I. MARGARET, of whom afterwards.

Berwick subsequently fell, after the battle of Hallidon Hill; and Sir Alexander, is supposed to have died in 1347, leaving a dau., who s. him,

MARGARET SETON, who m. Alan de Wyntoun, who d. in the Holy Land, and is supposed to have been a cadet of the Seton family; Winton, or Wyntoun, having belonged, as above stated, to Alexander and Philip Seton. The issue of this marriage was (together with a dau., m. to George, 10th Earl of Dunbar and March) one son,

SIR WILLIAM SETON, who was 10th feudal Lord of Seton, and was a distinguished knight in the reign of ROBERT III, and is thought by many to have been created a lord of parliament with the title of Lord Seton. He m. Katherine, dau. of Sir William St. Clair, of Herdmanston, and had by her,

I. John (Sir), a lord of parliament, with the title of Lord Seton, who m. his cousin, Janet Dunbar, dau. of George, 10th Earl of Dunbar and March, and was ancestor of the Setons, Earls of Winton and of Dunfermline, and of the Viscounts Kingstone, all of which titles were confiscated in the cause of the Stuarts.

He was engaged in the battle of Harlaw, in 1411, and in the wars in France in 1421. He was also one of the commissioners appointed to treat for the release of King JAMES I., then a prisoner in England, and was one of the hostages for his ransom in 1424, when his annual revenue was stated at 400 marks. His children were,

I. ALEXANDER (Sir), who s. to the Gordon property, and was created EARL OF HUNTLY by King JAMES II. Lineage.

Sir Peter Leycester, the Historian of Cheshire, gives the following pedigree of the Duttons of Dutton, and states that he derived it from family evidences, deeds, and other authentic evidences.

The surname of this family was adopted from the town of Dutton, in Cheshire.

ODARD, one of the companions in arms of the CONQUEROR, having seated himself in that county, acquired large possessions, according to Domesday-Book, from Hugh Lupus, Earl of Chester. From this Odard lineally descended

SIR THOMAS DUTTON, of Dutton, sheriff of Cheshire in 1226, whose great-grandson,

Of this gentleman, Wood, in his Athenæ Oxonienses, speaks thus:—"He was a learned and prudent man, and as one of the richest, so one of the meekest men in England. He was active in making the defence and drawing up the articles of Oxon when the garrison was to be surrendered to the parliament; for which, and his steady loyalty, he was afterwards forced to pay a round sum in Goldsmith's Hall, London." SHREWSBURY.

SHREWSBURY, EARL OF (Charles-Henry-John Chetwynd-Talbot), in the peerage of England; Earl of Waterford, in the peerage of Ireland; and Earl Talbot, Viscount Ingestre, and Baron Talbot, of Hensol, co. Glamorgan, in the peerage of Great Britain; Premier Earl of England; and Hereditary Great Seneschal (LORD HIGH STEWARD) of Ireland; b. 13 Nov. 1860; s. his father as 5th Earl Talbot, and 20th Earl Shrewsbury, 11 May, 1877. m 1882 Mrs Mundy

Lineage.

This eminent and historic family deduces its descent from a period antecedent to the Conquest; the first person of note, however, upon record is,

RICHARD DE TALBOT, mentioned in Domesday-Book as holding nine hides of land from Waltor Giffard, Earl of Buckingham. This Richard m. the dau. of Gerard de Gournay, Baron of Yarmouth, by whom he had two sons,

I. GEOFFREY, progenitor of the TALBOTS of Bashall, in Yorkshire, now extinct in the male line.
II. HUGH.

The 2nd son,

HUGH DE TALBOT, ancestor of the house of Shrewsbury, was made governor of the castle of Plessey, in Essex, by his uncle, Hugh de Gournay, in 1118, (then in rebellion against HENRY I.), after he had caused the king's governor to be put to death. Hugh de Talbot subsequently assumed the habit of a monk, and retired into the monastery of Beaubeck, in Normandy, leaving three sons, RICHARD, William, and Hugh, by his wife Beatrix, dau. of William de Mandeville. The eldest son,

RICHARD DE TALBOT, obtained from King HENRY II. a grant of the lordship of Eccleswall and Linton, co. Hereford, which grant King RICHARD I. confirmed for two hundred marks. This Richard de Talbot m. a dau. of Stephen Bulmer, of Appletreewick, co. York, and was s. by his eldest son,

GILBERT DE TALBOT, who was present at the coronation of King RICHARD I., in the 5th of whose reign he had lands given to him in Linton, for the custody of the castle of Ludlow. In 1199, this Gilbert paid a fine of forty shillings that he might not go beyond sea, and that he might have the scutage of his own demesnes. He was s. by his son,

RICHARD DE TALBOT, who m. Aliva, dau. of Alan Basset, Baron of Wycombe, co. Bucks, sister of Gilbert Basset, justice of England, and widow of Dru de Montacute, by whom he had issue, Richard, who was elected Bishop of London, 46 HENRY III., but d. before consecration; and an elder son,

GILBERT DE TALBOT, his successor, who was made governor of the castles of Grosmond, Skenfrith, and Blanc-minster, by King HENRY III., and constituted justice-itinerant for the co. of Hereford, by the same monarch. He m. Gwendaline, dau. of Rhys ap Griffith ap Rhys ap Griffith ap Rhys ap Tewdwr Mawr, King of South Wales, and relinquished, in consequence, his paternal arms, viz.: Bendy of ten pieces, arg. and gu., to assume: A lion, rampant, or, on a field, gu., within a bordure, engrailed, of the first, the armorial ensigns of the Princes of South Wales, which his descendants have ever since borne. He d. in 1274, and was s. by his son,

RICHARD DE TALBOT, feudal baron of Eccleswall, sheriff of Gloucester 28 EDWARD I.; who m. Sarah, dau. of William Beauchamp, Baron of Elmley and Earl of Warwick; and dying in 1306, was s. by his eldest son,

SIR GILBERT TALBOT, who being involved with Thomas Plantagenet, Earl of Lancaster, in the execution of Piers

de Gaveston, Earl of Cornwall, had his pardon for the same. This Sir Gilbert, who was lord-chamberlain to the king, 2 EDWARD III., had summons to parliament, as a baron, in 1331; and dying in 1346, was s. by his son (by Anne his wife, dau. of William, Lord Boteler, of Wem),

SIR RICHARD TALBOT, 2nd baron, summoned to parliament from 1331 to 1355. This nobleman was an eminent warrior in the reign of EDWARD III., and was made a knight-banneret. He d. in 1356, possessed of immense estates (amongst which was Goderich Castle, co. Hereford, where he chiefly resided), and was s. by his only son,

GILBERT, 3rd baron, summoned to parliament from 1362 to 1386. This nobleman m. 1st, Petronil, dau. of James Botiler, Earl of Ormonde, by whom he had an only son; and 2ndly, Joan, dau. of Ralph, Earl of Stafford, and was s. at his decease, in 1387, by his son,

SIR RICHARD, 4th baron; who having m. Ankaret, sister and eventually sole heiress of John, Baron Strange of Blackmere, was summoned to parliament (A.D. 1387) in the lifetime of his father, as "Ricardo Talbot de Blackmere," and "Ricardo de Godericke Castell." This nobleman d. in 1396, leaving five sons and four daus., of whom,

GILBERT s. his father.
JOHN, the 2nd son, was 1st Earl of Shrewsbury.
Richard, the 3rd son, was Archbishop of Dublin, for thirty-two years; during which period he was successively lord-chancellor, lord-justice, and lord-deputy of Ireland.

Lord Talbot was s. by his eldest son,

SIR GILBERT, 5th baron; who m. 1st, Joan, 2nd dau. of Thomas (of Woodstock), Duke of Gloucester, youngest son of King EDWARD III., by whom he had no issue; and 2ndly, Beatrix, of the illustrious house of Pinto, in Portugal, by whom he left at his decease, in 1419, a dau. his successor,

ANKARET TALBOT; at whose decease, in minority, 13 Dec 1431, the original Barony of Talbot, and that of Talbot of Blackmere, devolved upon her ladyship's uncle

SIR JOHN TALBOT, K.G., 6th baron; who having m. Maud, eldest dau. and co-heir of Thomas Nevil, Lord Furnival, had been summoned to parliament in 1409, as "Johannes Talbot de Furnyvall." He was appointed, in 1412, lord-justice of Ireland, and in two years afterwards, lord-lieutenant of the same kingdom: he governed there for seven years. This Lord Talbot, whom Shakespeare terms "the great Alcides of the field," was one of the most renowned captains of the warlike age he lived in. His earlier feats of arms were under HENRY V., in France, at the siege and capture of Meaux. He was with the king when he died, in 1422, and he seems to have inherited the heroic spirit of his royal master. He gloriously sustained the cause of HENRY VI., throughout his French realm, in battle after battle, until the very name of Talbot became a terror to Frenchmen. He was, for a moment, checked in his career by the Maid of Orleans, at Patay, in 1429, when his army being routed, he was taken prisoner. He was exchanged for Ambrose de Lore, a celebrated French partisan; and was soon in activity again, the master-mind and master-director of the fierce contest in France, doing good and effective service every day. In reward, he was created, 20 May, 1442, EARL OF SHREWSBURY. He was subsequently re-constituted lord-lieutenant of Ireland, and elevated to the peerage of that kingdom, 17 July, 1446, as Earl of Waterford, having been appointed at the same time lord-high-steward of Ireland.* After this, he went once more to fight in France. He commanded a fleet, landed and took Falaise, and, as Lieutenant of the duchy of Acquitaine, marched to the south and made Bordeaux surrender, and the surrounding minor towns send in instant submission. He thence advanced to the relief of Chastillon, and met the besieging French army commanded by their then greatest leader, Dunois, Bastard of Orleans. In the battle which ensued, 20 July, 1453, Talbot, in the eightieth year of his age, received a wound in the thigh, which proved immediately mortal. He had been victorious in forty different battles and dangerous skirmishes; his death proved fatal to the English dominion in France, which never flourished afterwards. The earl had two surviving sons by his 1st wife,

I. JOHN, his successor. II Christopher (Sir).

And by his 2nd, Margaret, eldest dau. and co-heiress of Richard Beauchamp, Earl of Warwick,

I. JOHN, who was created in 1443, Lord Lisle of Kingston Lisle in Berkshire; and in 1452, Viscount Lisle. His lordship fell endeavouring to rescue his father's body at the battle of Chastillon. He m. Joan, dau. and co-heiress of Sir Thomas Chedder, of Chedder, in Somersetshire, and left, with two daus.,

THOMAS, 2nd viscount. This nobleman having a dispute with Lord Berkeley, fell in a skirmish at Wooton-under-Edge, 20 March, 1469, when the viscountcy expired, but the extinction of the Barony of Lisle is doubtful (see BURKE'S Extinct Peerage).

II. Humphrey (Sir), marshal of Calais; d. s. p. in 1492.
III. Lewis (Sir), of Penyard, Herts.
I. Joan, m. to James, 1st Lord Berkeley.
II. Elizabeth, m. John Mowbray, 4th Duke of Norfolk.

His lordship was s. by his son,

JOHN, 2nd earl, K.G. lord-treasurer of Ireland during the administration of his father, and subsequently lord-treasurer of England. His lordship, true to his family's devotion to the Lancastrian cause, fell, with his brother Sir Christopher, at the battle of Northampton, 10 July, 1460, fighting for the Red Rose. The earl m. 1st, Catherine, dau. and co-heiress of Sir Edward Burnel, but had no issue. He m. 2ndly, Elizabeth, dau. of James Butler, Earl of Ormonde, and left (with other issue),

I. JOHN, his successor. II. James (Sir), d. s. p.
III. Gilbert (Sir), of Grafton, co. Worcester, who was high-sheriff of Shropshire, temp. RICHARD III. but proved a stanch adherent of the Earl of Richmond at Bosworth, the right wing of whose army Sir Gilbert commanded in that memorable field, and received the honour of knighthood, with a grant of the manor of Grafton and other lands, for his valiant conduct, from the victor. In two years afterwards, Sir Gilbert had a command at the battle of Stoke, when the Earl of Lincoln and Lambert Simnel were defeated, and he was then made a knight-banneret. Sir Gilbert m. 1st, Elizabeth, dau. of Henry, Lord Scrope, of Bolton, by whom he had two sons, Gilbert and Humphry, who both d. issueless. He m. 2ndly, Audrey, dau. of Sir John Cotton, Knt. and relict of Thomas Barton, Esq. and of Sir Richard Gardiner, lord-mayor of London, by whom he left at his decease, in 1516, an only son,

SIR JOHN TALBOT, of Albrighton, co. Salop, who eventually inherited the manor of Grafton. He m. 1st Margaret, dau. and heir of Adam Troutbeck, Esq. of Mobberley, in Cheshire, and by her had a son, JOHN, his heir, Sir John Talbot m. 2ndly, Elizabeth, dau. of Walter Wrottesley, of Wrottesley, and by her had a son,

JOHN of Salwarp, ancestor of the present EARL TALBOT, EARL OF SHREWSBURY.

Sir John, of Albrighton, d. 1549, and was s. by his eldest son,

JOHN (Sir), of Grafton and Albrighton, m. Frances, dau. of Sir John Giffard, Knt. and was father of,

JOHN (Sir), m. Catherine, dau of Sir William Petre, Knt., secretary of state to Queen MARY, and left at his decease,

1 GEORGE, of whom hereafter, as 9th Earl of Shrewsbury.
2 John, of Longford, whose son,
JOHN, s. his uncle, as 10th earl.
1 Anne, who m. Thomas Needham, Esq. of Shenton, co. Salop, and had, with other issue, a son, Robert (father of the 1st Viscount Kilmorey), and a dau., Anne, wife of Sir Richard Bulkeley, of Beaumaris, and mother of Launcelot Bulkeley, archbishop of Dublin, Arthur Bulkeley, vicar of Coyden, and other children.

John, 2nd Earl of Shrewsbury, was s. by his eldest son,

JOHN, 3rd earl; who m. Catherine, dau. of Humphrey Stafford, Duke of Buckingham; and dying in 1473, was s. by his eldest son,

GEORGE, 4th earl; who was installed a knight of the Garter in 1488, for his valiant conduct at the battle of Stoke, 16 June, 1487. His lordship m. 1st, Anne, dau. of William, Lord Hastings, by whom he had six sons and five daus. He m. 2ndly, Elizabeth, dau. and co-heir of Sir Richard Walden, Knt. of Erith, in Kent, by whom he had one surviving dau. Anne, m. 1st, to Peter Compton, son and heir of Sir William Compton, Knt.; and 2ndly, to William Herbert, Earl of Pembroke. Lord Shrewsbury, d. 26 July, 1528, and was s. by his 2nd and eldest surviving son, FRANCIS, 5th earl, K.G.; who had been summoned to parliament as a baron in the lifetime of his father (7 Feb.

* Shakespeare gives thus the titles of this great earl:—
"Valiant Lord Talbot, Earl of Shrewsbury,
Created for his rare success in arms,
Great Earl of Washford, Waterford, and Valence;
Lord Talbot of Goodrig and Urchinfield;
Lord Strange of Blackmere; Lord Verdun of Alton;
Lord Cromwell of Wingfield; Lord Furnival of Sheffield;
The thrice victorious Lord of Falconbridge;
Knight of the noble order of St. George,
Worthy St. Michael, and the Golden Fleece;
Great-Marshal to Henry the Sixth,
Of all his wars within the realm of France."
The earl's monument at Whitchurch repeats nearly the whole of this list of honours.

1532-3). "This nobleman," says Lodge, "although of no ordinary abilities, appears to have been confined almost entirely to a military life. The bravery, prudence, and fidelity which had distinguished him in his important public situations during the reign of Queen MARY, induced ELIZABETH to retain him amongst those few servants of the late reign whom she admitted to her privy council when she mounted the throne; but his steady adherence to the religion of his ancestors probably obstructed his further promotion. Of the whole body of the temporal peers who had so lately, and unanimously, subscribed to the recognition of the temporal authority [of the papal see] only this nobleman and one more [Viscount Montagu] could now be found to oppose the revocation of that concession." He survived this uncourtly act of sincerity but a few months, and dying 25 Sept. 1560, was s. by his only son (by his 1st wife Mary, dau. of Thomas, Lord Dacre of Gilleslaud),

GEORGE, 6th earl, K.G. This nobleman had the custody of MARY, Queen of Scots, committed to his charge, in the 11th of ELIZABETH, and, nearly twenty years afterwards, assisted, with Henry Grey, Earl of Kent, at the unhappy MARY's execution. He had been appointed, 16 Jan. 1571-2, at the arraignment of the Duke of Norfolk, lord-high-steward of England; and after the execution of that nobleman, earl-marshal. His lordship m. 1st, Gertrude, dau. of Thomas Manners, Earl of Rutland, by whom he had four sons and three daus.; and 2ndly, Elizabeth, dau. and co-heiress of John Hardwick, of Hardwick, by whom he had no issue. Of this lady, Lodge says, "she had been already thrice married: to Robert Barley, Esq. of Barley, co. Derby; to Sir William Cavendish; and to Sir William St. Loo, captain of the guard to Queen ELIZABETH. She prevailed upon the first of these gentlemen, who dies without issue, to settle his estate on her and her heirs, who were abundantly produced from her second marriage. Her third husband who was very rich, was led by her persuasions to make a similar disposition of his fortune, to the utter prejudice of his daughters by a former wife; and now, unsated with the wealth and caresses of three husbands, she finished her conquests by marrying the Earl of Shrewsbury, the richest and most powerful peer of his time. To sum up her character, she was a woman of a masculine understanding and conduct; proud, furious, selfish, and unfeeling. She was a builder, a buyer and seller of estates, a money-lender, a farmer, and a merchant of lead, coals, and timber. She lived to a great old age, and d. in 1607, immensely rich." The Earl of Shrewsbury was s. in 1590, by his eldest surviving son,

GILBERT, 7th earl, K.G.; who m. Mary, dau. of his step-mother, by Sir William Cavendish, and left three daus, viz.,

Mary, m. to William Herbert, Earl of Pembroke; and d. s. p.
Elizabeth, m. to Henry Grey, Earl of Kent.
Alathea, m. to Thomas Howard, Earl of Arundel.

Upon these ladies the greater part of the earl's estates devolved, and the Baronies of Talbot, Furnival, and Strange of Blackmere, fell into abeyance until the decease of the two elder without issue, when those dignities are presumed to have vested in Alathea, the 3rd dau. (See BURKE's Extinct and Dormant Peerage.) The earldom passed to the deceased lord's brother

EDWARD, 8th earl, at whose decease without surviving issue, 8 Feb. 1617, the earldom reverted to his kinsman,

GEORGE TALBOT, Esq. of Grafton, as 9th earl (refer to descendants of Sir Gilbert Talbot, of Grafton, son of James, 2nd earl). His lordship dying, however, unm., the peerage devolved upon his nephew,

JOHN, 10th earl (son of John Talbot, Esq., by Eleanor, dau. and heiress of Sir Thomas Baskerville, Knt. of Brinsop, in Herefordshire (see BURKE's Landed Gentry). His lordship m. Mary, dau. of Sir Francis Fortescue, K.B. of Salden Hill, and had, with other issue,

I. FRANCIS, his successor.
II. Gilbert, m. Jane Flatsbury, and left,
  1 GILBERT, 13th earl.
  2 GEORGE, father of the 14th earl.

He was s. in 1653, by his eldest surviving son,

FRANCIS, 11th earl. This nobleman m. 1st, Anne, dau. and heiress of Sir John Conyers, of Sockburne, by whom he had an only surviving dau., Mary, m. to John Stonor, Esq. of Watlington Park, co. Oxford. His lordship m. 2ndly, Anna-Maria, dau. of Robert, 2nd Earl of Cardigan, by whom he had two sons; and dying 16 March, 1667, of a wound received in a duel with George Villiers, 2nd Duke of Buckingham, was s. by his elder son,

CHARLES, (CHARLES II.'s godson,) the 12th earl, b. in 1660, who was created, 30 April, 1694, Marquess of Alton, co. Stafford, and DUKE OF SHREWSBURY, and installed a knight of the Garter. His grace was a prominent statesman in the reigns of WILLIAM and MARY, Queen ANNE, and GEORGE I., and filled some of the highest official situations. He had quitted the Church of Rome and become a Protestant in 1679, and by his steady adherence to the Protestant cause incurred the displeasure of JAMES II. He was one of the seven who, in June, 1688, signed the celebrated association inviting over the Prince of Orange. QUEEN ANNE on her deathbed delivered to him the Treasurer's staff. At that time the Duke of Shrewsbury was lord-lieutenant of Ireland, lord-high treasurer of Great Britain, and lord-chamberlain, a circumstance previously unparalleled in our history. Immediately after Her Majesty expired his Grace secured the Hanoverian succession by at once signing the proclamation for proclaiming GEORGE I. He m. Adelhida, dau. of the Marquis of Palliotti, in Bologna, Italy, but d. without issue, 1 Feb. 1717 (o.s.), when the dukedom and marquisate expired, but the earldom, &c., reverted to his cousin,

THE REV. GILBERT TALBOT, as 13th earl, a clergyman of the Catholic church (refer to Gilbert, son of the 10th earl). This nobleman dying in 1743, the honours devolved upon his nephew, George (see infra).

Having thus carried down the senior male lines of the Earls of Shrewsbury to their extinction, we will proceed to detail the lineage of the present Earl:—

JOHN TALBOT, of Salwarp, eldest son of Sir John Talbot, of Albrighton, (see ante, descent of Sir John Talbot, p. 1111) by Elizabeth, his second wife, daughter of Walter Wrottesley, Esq. of Wrottesley, co. Stafford, was so called from inheriting the seat and estate of Salwarp, in Worcestershire. He m. Olive, dau. and co-heir of Sir Henry Sherrington, of Lacock, in Wiltshire, Knt., of an ancient family and large possessions in that county, and d. in 1571, leaving issue three sons,

Sir Gilbert Talbot, Knt., one of the younger of these sons, was Master of the Jewel Office, in the reign of CHARLES II., but had no issue. Sherington Talbot, the eldest, was father (with other issue) of Sir John Talbot, of Lacock, who d. 1713, leaving three daus., only, viz., 1 Anne, who was m. to Sir John Ivory, and had issue, John-Ivory Talbot, Esq. of Lacock, in Wiltshire, M.P., ancestor of the present Charles-Henry Fox Talbot, Esq. of Lacock Abbey, Wilts.; 2 Barbara, who was m. to Henry Yelverton, Viscount Longueville, and her son was Talbot Yelverton, Earl of Sussex; and, 3 Gilberta, d. unm. Sherington Talbot, of Rudge, Salwarp, and Lacock, m. 2ndly, Mary, dau. of John Washbourne, Esq. of Wichinford, co. The only son,

The RIGHT REV. WILLIAM TALBOT, BISHOP OF DURHAM, was born at Stourton Castle, and was educated in Oriel College, Oxford, where he took his degree of M.A., 23 June, 1680. This prelate was the friend and protégé of Charles, Duke of Shrewsbury. He went into holy orders early in life, and obtained a rectory when very young. He was nominated by WILLIAM III. to the Deanery of Worcester, 23 April, 1691, and was, 24 Sept. 1699, consecrated Bishop of Oxford, with leave to hold his deanery in commendam. He continued in the See of Oxford till 1715, when he was made Bishop of Salisbury. He was further, 23 Sept. 1722, translated to the Bishopric of Durham, of which county he was lord-lieutenant and custos rotulorum. His lordship d. 10 Oct. 1730, having, (by Catherine his wife, dau. of Alderman King, of the city of London,) had, to survive to maturity, three sons and two daus.,

(See BURKE'S Landed Gentry.) General Sherington Talbot's son by his first wife was created a Baronet 31 May, 1790, and became SIR CHARLES-HENRY TALBOT, Bart. of Mickleham, co. Surrey, and of Belfast, co. Antrim, who m. in 1749, Annie, only child of Thomas Hassel, Esq.; and d. in 1798, leaving issue (with four daus., viz., Amelia-Anne; Catherine-Jane, m. to the Rev. The eldest son,

CHARLES TALBOT, b. 1684, called to the Bar by the Inner Temple, in 1710, attained the summit of his profession, and established the highest legal reputation. He was also an active politician, and was M.P. for Tregony and for Durham. On the 23 April, 1726, Mr. Talbot was appointed solicitor-general, which office he continued to fill until 29 Nov. 1733, when he was constituted LORD HIGH CHANCELLOR OF ENGLAND, sworn of the privy council, and elevated to the peerage, 5 Dec. following, by the title of Baron Talbot, of Hensol, co. Glamorgan. Lord Talbot is thus eulogised by Dr. Birch: "This noble lord obtained the honour and reverence of his country at a season when no foreign or domestic occurrence occasioned any remarkable event. In apprehension, he so far exceeded the common rank of men, that he saw by a kind of intuition the strength or imperfection of any arguments; and so penetrating was his sagacity, that the most intricate and perplexing mazes of the law could never so involve and darken the truth as to conceal it from his discernment. As a member of each House of Parliament, no man ever had a higher deference paid to his abilities, or more confidence placed in his public spirit; and so excellent was his temper and so candid his disposition in debate, that he never offended those whose arguments he opposed. Though removed at a time of life when others begin to shine, he might justly be said "satis et ad vitam et ad gloriam vixisse." Lord Talbot m. Cecil, dau. and heiress of Charles Matthews, Esq. of Castley-Menich, co. Glamorgan,* by whom he had,

Lineage.

In A.D. 888, Rogenwald, Earl of Mære and Raumdahl, in Norway, obtained a grant of the Orkney Islands from King Harold Harfagr. One of the sons of Earl Rogenwald, Rollo, conquered Neustria, founded the line of sovereign Dukes of Normandy, and was ancestor to William the Conqueror. Another of his sons, Eynar, was the founder of a race of Scandinavian Earls, who reigned over the Orkney and Shetland Islands for nearly five centuries, with the title of Earls of Orkney. These Earls were twice allied to the royal family of Norway. Earl Paul m. the granddau. of Magnus the Good, King of Norway, who d. in 1047; and Earl John m. a dau. of Magnus, King of Norway, who d. in 1289. They were also twice allied to the royal family of Scotland. Sigurd, 2nd Earl of Orkney, who was killed at the battle of Clontarf, in 1014, m. one of the daus. and co-heirs of Malcolm II., King of Scotland, and Margaret, Countess of Orkney, dau. and ultimate heiress of Earl Haco, m. a member of the Scottish royal race, Madoch, Earl of Athol, nephew of King Malcolm III. By the former of these two marriages, the right of co-heirship of the ancient line of Kings of Scotland is shared between the reigning family and the Earls of Orkney and their representatives. Isabella, Countess of Orkney, dau. of Earl Magnus, and heiress of this illustrious line, m. Malise, 6th Earl of Stratherne, one of the most ancient and potent of the native Scottish magnates. The son of this marriage, Malise, 7th Earl of Stratherne, Earl of Orkney and Caithness, had no male issue. His eldest dau., Isabella, m. William St. Clair, Lord of Roslyn, and transmitted her right to the Earldom of Orkney to Henry her son.

The remote ancestor of William St. Clair was a noble Norman baron, who obtained Roslyn from King David I. of Scotland; and his father, William St. Clair, Lord of Roslyn, the companion in arms of King Robert Bruce, perished along with James, Lord of Douglas, in battle against the Moors in Spain, in 1330, while carrying that monarch's heart to the holy sepulchre at Jerusalem.

HENRY ST. CLAIR, son of William, Lord of Roslyn, and Isabella of Stratherne, heiress of Orkney, had his claim to the Earldom of Orkney admitted by HACO VI., King of Norway, and acknowledged by ROBERT II., King of Scotland, in 1379; and dying about 1400, he was s. by his son,

HENRY ST. CLAIR, 2nd Earl of Orkney, and Lord Sinclair. He m. Egidia, dau. and heir of William Douglas, Lord of Nithsdale, by Princess Egidia, dau. of King ROBERT II, His son

WILLIAM ST. CLAIR or SINCLAIR, 3rd Earl of Orkney, and Lord Sinclair, was Lord High Chancellor and Lord High Admiral of Scotland. In 1455, he had a grant of the Earldom of Caithness, in compensation for the Lordship of Nithsdale. In 1471, he was obliged to resign his Earldom of Orkney to King JAMES III., which was annexed to the crown by act of parliament. In lieu of this he obtained the estates of Dysart and Ravenscraig, in the county of Fife. At the time of his death, in 1480, he was Earl of Caithness and Lord Sinclair. He m. 1st, Elizabeth, dau. of Archibald, 4th Earl of Douglas, Duke of Touraine, by Princess Margaret, dau. of King ROBERT III., by whom he had a son, WILLIAM, and a dau., CATHERINE, wife of Alexander, Duke of Albany, 2nd son of King JAMES II. He m. 2ndly, Marjory Sutherland, by whom he had, with other issue, I. OLIVER, to whom he assigned the estate of Roslyn. He was ancestor of the family of St. Clair of Roslyn, now extinct in the male line. II. WILLIAM, to whom, with consent of the crown, he assigned the Earldom of Caithness. He was ancestor to the Earls of Caithness and their numerous branches. The last Earl of Orkney disinherited his eldest son,

WILLIAM SINCLAIR, of Newburgh, Master of Orkney, and Lord Sinclair. By an arrangement with his younger brothers, he obtained the estates of Dysart and Ravenscraig, in the county of Fife, and was solemnly acknowledged by them as their chief and the head of their house. He d. in 1487, just after he had brought this family compact to a termination. By his wife, Lady Christian Leslie, dau. of George, 1st Earl of Rothes, he had a son and successor,

HENRY SINCLAIR, who, in 1488, was recognized as a peer of parliament, by the King and Parliament, as Lord Sinclair. As he was the first of the family who held that title alone, he is generally styled 1st Lord Sinclair, although he was in reality the fourth holder of that title. He perished at Flodden, 1513. By Margaret, dau. of Adam Hepburn, Lord Hailes, and sister of the 1st Earl of Bothwell, he had issue a son, WILLIAM, and several daus. One of these, Agnes, born just before her father's death, was, in 1545, wife of Patrick Hepburn, 3rd Earl of Bothwell. She was mother of James, 4th Earl of Bothwell, Duke of Orkney, third husband of MARY, Queen of Scotland. Henry, Lord Sinclair, was s. by his son,

WILLIAM SINCLAIR, 2nd Lord Sinclair, or, in reality, 5th Lord. He m. Lady Elizabeth Keith, dau. of William, 3rd Earl Marischal, and descended from JAMES I., King of Scotland. He d. 1570, and was s. by his only son,

He m. 1st, Janet, dau. of Patrick, 6th Lord Lindsay, of the Byres, by whom he had, with other issue, 1 James, Master of Sinclair; 2 Patrick, ancestor of the family of Sinclair of Balgreggie, which became extinct in the male line on the death of John Sinclair, of Balgreggie, in 1710, and is represented by Aytoun of Inchdairney. He m. 2ndly, Elizabeth, dau. of William, 7th Lord Forbes, by whom he had, with other issue, a dau., Elizabeth, wife of Sir Duncan Campbell, of Glenorchy, ancestor to the Marquess of Breadalbane. Lord Sinclair d. in 1601, and was s. by his grandson, the son of his eldest son,

JAMES SINCLAIR, Master of Sinclair, who m. Lady Isabella Leslie, dau. of Andrew, 4th Earl of Rothes, by whom he had a dau., Margaret, wife of William, Lord Berriedale, and mother of George, 6th Earl of Caithness, and three sons successively Lords Sinclair.

HENRY, 4th lord, s. his grandfather, 1601; d. 1602.

JAMES, 5th Lord Sinclair, s. his brother, 1602; d. 1607.

PATRICK, 6th Lord Sinclair, s. his brother in 1607. He m. Margaret, dau. of Sir John Cockburn, of Ormiston, lord-justice-clerk of Scotland, and dying in 1617, was s. by his only son,

JOHN SINCLAIR, 7th Lord Sinclair, who m. Lady Mary Wemyss, dau. of John, 1st Earl of Wemyss, by whom he had an only dau. and sole heir to his title and estates Catherine, Mistress of Sinclair. He d. in 1676, aged 66. His dau.,

CATHERINE SINCLAIR, Mistress of Sinclair, or, as she is styled in some genealogies, Baroness Sinclair, m. in 1659, John St. Clair, eldest son of Sir John St. Clair, of Hermandston, by whom she had, with two children who d. unm., a son, Henry, heir through her to the title and estates of her family. The Mistress of Sinclair d. 1666. Her son and successor,

HENRY ST. CLAIR, 8th Lord Sinclair, got a charter, or diploma, dated 1 June, 1677, under the great seal, from King CHARLES II., confirming all the honours, dignities, privileges, &c., enjoyed by his predecessors, Lords Sinclair, with the former precedency, to him and the heirs male of his body; which failing to John, his brother-german, and his heirs male; which failing to Robert, George, and MATTHEW Sinclair, successively brothers-german to the said Sir John of Herdmanston, and the heirs male of their bodies; which all failing, to the said Henry, his nearest heirs male whatsoever. Henry, 8th Lord Sinclair, was a man of great probity, and honour, and a devoted adherent of the House of Stuart. When he saw, at the Convention of Estates, in 1689, that they were determined to dethrone King JAMES, and settle the crown on the Prince of Orange, he protested against the proceedings and left the house. His lordship m. in 1680, Grizel, dau. of Sir James Cockburn, Bart. of Cockburn, and d. in 1723, leaving issue,

She m. John Paterson, of Prestonhall, in the co. of Edinburgh, eldest son of the last Archbishop of Glasgow, by whom she had a dau., MARGARET, wife of John Thomson, of Charleton, in the co. of Fife, and a son, JAMES PATERSON, a colonel in the army, who, on the deaths, without issue, of his uncles, John, Master of Sinclair, and the Hon. General James St. Clair, succeeded to the Sinclair estates of Dysart, in the co. of Fife, and Roslyn, in the co. of Edinburgh. He was the undoubted heir of line of the Earls of Orkney and Lords Sinclair, and became St. Clair of Sinclair and Dysart. Dying unm. in 1789, he was s. in the representation of the illustrious House of Sinclair, Earl of Orkney, and Lord Sinclair, by the descendant and heir of his only sister, Margaret, who m. in 1744, John Thomson, of Charleton, in the county of Fife. The dau. and heir of this marriage, Grisel-Maria Thomson, heiress of Charleton, m. Colonel John Anstruther, 2nd son of Sir Philip Anstruther, Bart., of Balcaskie, by Catherine Hay, dau. of Lord Alexander Hay, son of John, 1st Marquess of Tweeddale, by Lady Jean Scott, dau. of Walter, Earl of Buccleugh. Colonel John Anstruther, was the 19th in direct male descent from the founder of the family of De Caudela, Lord of Anstruther, in the county of Fife, in A.D. 1100. The son of this marriage, JOHN ANSTRUTHER, assumed the additional name of THOMSON on inheriting his mother's estate of Charleton. He was representative of the Earls of Orkney and Lords Sinclair. He m. Clementina, only dau. of the Right Hon. William Adam, of Blair Adam, baron of Exchequer, lord-chief commissioner of the Jury Court in Scotland, lord-lieutenant of the county of Kinross, by the Hon. Eleanor Elphinstone, dau. of Charles, 10th Lord Elphinstone. His son, JOHN-ANSTRUTHER THOMSON, now of Charleton, and representative of the Earls of Orkney and Lords Sinclair, and heir of line of the 8th Lord Sinclair, m. 1852, Caroline-Maria-Agnes Robina, only dau. and heir of the late Rev. John-Hamilton Gray, of Carntyne, co. Lanark, by Elizabeth-Caroline, eldest dau. of James-Raymond Johnstone, of Alva, by whom he has issue, 1 John-St. Clair, b. 1853, d. unm. 1873; 2 Charles-Frederick-St. Clair, 17th lancers, b. 1855; 3 William, b. 1859; 1 Clementina-Caroline; and 2 Rosia-Mary.

II. Catherine, wife of Sir William Erskine, Bart. of Alva, and mother of Sir Henry Erskine, Bart., who, by his wife, Janet Wedderburn, sister to the Lord Chancellor, Lord Loughborough, Earl of Roslyn, had issue, Sir James Erskine, Bart., who s. his maternal uncle as 2nd Earl of Roslyn, and s. by a special destination to the estates of Dysart and Roslyn on the death of his father's cousin, Colonel St. Clair, of Sinclair and Dysart. He thereupon assumed the additional surname of ST. CLAIR. His son is James-Alexander St. Clare Erskine, 3rd Earl of Roslyn.

III. Margaret, wife of Sir William Baird Bart. of Newbythe. Her son d. without issue.

IV. Elizabeth, wife of David, 3rd Earl of Wemyss, and had issue two daus., 1 Elizabeth, Countess of Sutherland, and mother of William, 17th Earl of Sutherland; 2 Mary, wife of the 7th Earl of Moray.

By descent from these daus., of the 8th Lord Sinclair, GRIZEL, CATHERINE, and ELIZABETH, John-Anstruther Thomson, of Charleton, is heir and representative of the Earls of Orkney and Lords Sinclair, through the eldest; while the Earl of Roslyn is the heir of the second, and the Duke of Sutherland is heir of the youngest.

Henry, 8th Lord Sinclair, dying as aforesaid in 1723, was s. in the Sinclair estates by his eldest son,

JOHN, Master of Sinclair, who, having been engaged in the Rebellion in 1715, was attainted, and never assumed the title of Lord Sinclair. He m. 1st, Lady Margaret Stewart, dau. of James, 5th Earl of Galloway, and widow of the 5th Earl of Southesk; and 2ndly, Amelia, dau. of Lord George Murray, and sister to the 3rd Duke of Athol. Dying without issue in 1750, he was s. by his brother,

THE HON. JAMES ST. CLAIR, de jure 9th Lord Sinclair. He never assumed the title. He was a general in the army and a distinguished diplomatist. He or his brother, the Master of Sinclair, in 1735, purchased the ancient ancestral Castle of Roslyn from the last heir of that cadet branch, and added it to the family estates. Dying without issue in 1762, General St. Clair was s. as above mentioned in the estates and representation of the Sinclair family by his nephew, Colonel James-Paterson St. Clair, while the claim to the title of Lord Sinclair devolved, according to the remainder in the patent of 1677, granted by King CHARLES II. to Henry, 8th Lord Sinclair, on Mr. St. Clair, of Hermandston.

As St. Clair of Hermandston was not descended from the Lords Sinclair, it may be proper to state the genealogy of that most ancient and distinguished family.

The St. Clairs of Hermandston can boast of a descent not less ancient than that of the St. Clairs of Roslyn, Earls of Orkney, but no common origin can be traced. Both families are of noble Norman blood, and both were settled in Scotland about the same period.

The St. Clairs of Hermandston derive their descent from Henry St. Clair, who was Vice Comes of Richard de Morville, Constable of Scotland. In 1162, Henry St. Clair had a charter of the lands of Hermandston, which have ever since continued in the family, which, in point of ancient descent, is the first family in East Lothian. Like his namesake and cotemporary of Roslyn, Sir William St. Clair, of Hermandston, was the companion in arms of King ROBERT BRUCE; who, on account of his heroic services at the battle of Bannockburn presented him with a sword, on the broadside of which were engraved the words "Le Roi me donne, St. Clair me porte." Sir John St. Clair, of Hermandston, who lived in 1389, m. Elizabeth Polwarth, heiress of Polwarth. His grandson, Sir John St. Clair, of Hermandston and Polwarth, who lived in 1444, had two sons,

Sir John St. Clair, of Hermandston and Polwarth, whose two daus. and co-heirs carried large estates into the families of Hume of Wedderburne and Hume, Earl of Marchmont.

Sir William St. Clair, of Hermandston, who carried on the line of the family.

His descendant in the 6th generation, Sir John St. Clair, of Hermandston, m. Elizabeth, dau. of Sir John Sinclair, Bart. of Stevenson, by whom he had issue,

I. John St. Clair, who m. Catherine Sinclair, Mistress of Sinclair, only dau. of John Sinclair, 7th Lord Sinclair, and sole heir of his title and estates. Their only surviving son, Henry St. Clair, was, in right of his mother, heir to her father the 7th Lord Sinclair, and he became accordingly 8th Lord Sinclair. In 1677, he, as already stated, got a confirmatory patent of the peerage, with remainder to the family of Hermandston. His descendants have been already detailed.

II. Robert, who had no male issue.

III. George, whose issue failed.

IV. MATTHEW, mentioned in one of the limitations of the above patent of confirmation of 1677.

This MATTHEW, the 4th son of Sir John St. Clair, of Hermandston, m Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Thomas Ker, of Cavers. Dying in 1728, he was s. by his son,

CHARLES ST. CLAIR, of Hermandston, who, on the death of General the Hon. James St. Clair, of Dysart, de jure 9th Lord Sinclair, inherited a claim to the Sinclair peerage in consequence of the remainder in the patent granted in 1677, by King CHARLES II., to the 8th lord. The Barony of Sinclair, as originally held by Henry Sinclair, 2nd Earl of Orkney, was the oldest barony in Scotland, and Henry, the 8th lord, was in reality the 12th Lord Sinclair dating from the 2nd Earl of Orkney. Charles St. Clair m. Elizabeth, dau. of the Hon. Sir Andrew Hume, of Kimmerghem, a lord of Session in Scotland; and dying in 1775, he was s. in his claim to the Barony of Sinclair by his son,

ANDREW ST. CLAIR, of Hermandston. He m. Elizabeth, dau. of John Rutherford, younger, of Edgerton, and granddau. of Sir John Rutherford, of Edgerton, and had issue,

CHARLES, late lord.
Matthew, comm. R.N., lost at sea in 1800.

He d. in 1776, and was s. in his claim to the Sinclair peerage by his son,

CHARLES ST. CLAIR, of Hermandston, late LORD SINCLAIR, who, in 1782, preferred his claim to the dormant Barony of Sinclair, and had his claim acknowledged after an investigation in the House of Lords. He thus became Lord Sinclair, and he was the first of his line who has held that title, without descent from the orginal lords. The original Sinclair Barony was not resigned to the crown when the patent, in virtue of which the family of Hermandston now enjoy the title, was granted by King CHARLES II. in 1677. Charles, Lord Sinclair, was b. 30 July, 1768. He m. 1st, 13 Feb. 1802, Mary-Agnes, only dau. of James Chisholme, Esq. of Chisholme, by whom (who d. 16 July, 1814) he had issue, SKIPWITH.

SKIPWITH, SIR PEYTON-ESTOTVILLE, Bart., of Prestwould, co. Leicester, capt. 2nd Warwick militia; b. 12 Feb. 1857; s. his father as 10th bart., 30 Nov. 1863; m. 6 Feb. 1879, Alice-Mary, only dau. of Col. B.-B. Herrick, R.M. Lt. Infantry.

Lineage.

This family originally called Schypwyc from the town and lordship of Skipwith, in Yorkshire, descends from

ROBERT DE ESTOUTEVILLE, Baron of Cottingham, in the time of the CONQUEROR, of whom and his descendants, the feudal lords of Cottingham, Dugdale treats at great length in the Baronage. He m. Adeliza, dau. of Ivo, Count de Beaumont, and had three sons, Robert, John, and Nicolas, ancestor of the noble branch of the family in France; and a dau., m. 1st, to Erard, Sire de Harcourt; and 2ndly, to Hugh, Sire de Grand Mesnil. The eldest son,

ROBERT DE ESTOUTEVILLE, acquired a great inheritance with his wife Eneburga, dau. and heir of Hugh Fitz Baldoric, a great Saxon Thane, and, among other lands, had the lordship of Schypwyc, or Skipwic. He left (with a dau.) three sons,

ROBERT, his heir, from whom the territorial lords of Cottingham, whose male line terminated in the 17th of HENRY III.
OSMUND, ancestor of the Barons of Gressinghall: he d. at Joppa, in Palestine, and his line became extinct in the 6th of EDWARD II.
PATRICK, of Skipwith.

The youngest son,

PATRICK DE ESTOUTEVILLE, having, by gift of his father, the lordship of Skipwith, his descendants took their name therefrom, in accordance with the custom of the age. He m. Beatrix, dau. and heir of Sir Pagan de Langtun, and was s. by his son,

JEFFREY DE SKIPWITH, who m. Mariana, dau. and heir

* This lady and her sisters were raised to the rank of the daughters of a baron.

of William de Menithorp, and had two sons, REGINALD and Gerard. The elder, REGINALD, was hostage for the Lord Scales, in the Barons' wars, 9th of JOHN. His son and heir,

SIR WILLIAM DE SKIPWITH, Lord of Skipwith, was living temp. HENRY III., and marrying Alice, dau. of Sir John Thorp, and heir of Sir William Thorp, Knts., became possessed of a great estate in Lincolnshire, and was the last of the family who resided at Skipwith. His son and heir,

SIR JOHN DE SKIPWITH, living at Thorp, was sometimes styled De Thorp; he likewise possessed the manor of Bekeby, now Bigby, in right of his mother, and having married Isabel, dau. and heir of Sir Robert de Arches, Knt. of Wranby, in the same county, had also possession of that estate. He was s. by his son,

JOHN DE SKIPWITH, who resided at Bekeby, and augmented his patrimony by marriage with Margaret, dau. and co-heir of Herbert de Flinton, of Yorkshire, by whom he had a son and heir,

WILLIAM DE SKIPWITH, who m. Margaret, dau. of Ralph Fitz Simon, Lord of Ormsby, in the co. of Lincoln, and sister and sole heir of Simon Fitz Ralph, whereby he became possessed of that inheritance, which was the possession of Sir Ralph Fitz Simon, Knt. who in several charters was termed nobilis, and had obtained the estate and manor by his wife, the dau. and heir of Ormsby of Ormsby. From this marriage with Margaret Fitz Simon proceeded three sons,

JOHN, eldest son and heir, d. s. p. 10 EDWARD III., the same year in which his father died.
WILLIAM (Sir), of whom we treat.

SIR WILLIAM SKIPWITH, the second son, s. his elder brother in the estate, a few months after his father died. Sir William was bred to the bar, and attained great eminence. He was M.P. for York: he was first chosen one of the king's serjeants, and in the 33rd of EDWARD III., made a judge of the Common Pleas. In three years afterwards, he was sworn in lord-chief-baron of the Exchequer, from which office he was removed in 1365; he was reinstated a judge and made chief justice of Ireland, 25 April, 1371: he retired in 1373, and was again a judge of the Common Pleas in England, from 8 Oct. 1377 till 1388: he d. 1391. As a judge, he deported himself so uprightly, that his name is handed down by our historians with the highest honour. "The Collar of Esses," (says an old writer), "now worn by the judges, first introduced from the initial letters of SANCTUS SIMON SIMPLICIUS, an uncorrupted justicier in the primitive times, well suited this Sir William Skipworth, who died full of honour." His lordship m. Alice, only dau. and heir of Sir William de Hiltoft, Lord of Ingoldnells, and had issue,

Sir Henry sold the estate of Prestwould, in 1653, to Mr. Packe. The baronet was a poet, and he is thus spoken of by Barton, in 1622: "Sir Henry Skipwith, Knt. I cannot pass over in silence, for that his so many good parts, his person, his valour, his learning, his judgment, and wisdom, do challenge more than I can express. Among the rest, yet I cannot omit to speak of his witty conceits in making fit and acute epigrams, poems, mottoes, and devices." He was s. at his decease by his eldest son,

Lineage.

In the reign of DAVID II., in 1358, a grant of the lands and barony of Carnegie, in Forfarshire, was made by Walterus de Maule to JOHN DE BALINHARD, who afterwards took the name of CARNEGIE. The charter runs thus:—"Quam quondam W. de Maule fecit et concessit Joanni filio et heredi quondam Joannis filii Christini, filii Joannis de Balinhard," &c. This last-named John was he who died c. 1275. Of the origin of the De Balinhards we have no record, all the early family charters having perished when the house of Kinnaird was burnt, in 1452.

GOCELYNUS DE BALINHARD witnesses several charters, &c. (undated, but, by collateral evidence, drawn out between 1204 and 1235), in the Arbroath and St. Andrew's chartularies; of his relationship, however, there is no proof.

JOHN DE BALINHARD, to whom the grant of the lands of Carnegie was made, and who afterwards took the name of CARNEGIE, was great-grandson of JOHN DE BALINHARD, who died c. 1275. He d. in 1370, and was s. by his son,

DUTHACUS DE CARNEGIE, who acquired from Robert, Duke of Albany, governor of Scotland, a charter, dated 21 Feb. 1409, confirming "Duthaco de Carnegy, omnes et singulas terras villæ de Kynnard, ac superioritatem brasinæ ejusdem, on the signation of Mariota de Kynnard." Duthacus de Carnegie fell at the battle of Harlaw, in 1411, leaving an infant son,

WALTER DE CARNEGIE, of Kinnaird, who took part against the Earl of Crawford, at the battle of Brechin, 18 May, 1452, when his adherents were defeated by the royal troops under the command of the Earl of Huntly; and Walter de Carnegie's house of Kinnaird was burnt by Crawford in retaliation. Walter Carnegie, of Carnegie, and John, his son, are mentioned in a perambulation of the muir of Balnamoon, 27 July, 1456. He d. in 1479, leaving a son,

JOHN DE CARNEGIE, of Kinnaird, who, 4 Nov. 1480, had a grant from his cousin, David, Earl of Crawford, of a liferent out of the lands of Glenesk; and dying in 1508, left a son, by his wife, a lady of the name of Vaus,

JOHN DE CARNEGIE, of Kinnaird, who fell at the battle of Flodden, 9 Sept. 1513, leaving by his wife, Euphame Strachan, a dau. Janet, m. to William Maule, of Boath, and a son

SIR ROBERT CARNEGIE, of Kinnaird, who had various charters of lands in several counties. He was appointed one of the Senators of the College of Justice, 4 July, 1547; was sent to England next year, to treat for the redemption of the Earl of Huntly, chancellor of Scotland, taken at the battle of Pinkie, and was knighted on his return. He was ambassador to France, 1550; had a great hand in persuading the Duke of Chatelherault to resign the regency to Mary of Lorrain; was a commissioner to treat with the English, 1555 and 1557; was sent by the Lords of the Congregation in 1559, to France, to explain their views to Queen MARY; and d. 5 Jan. 1565. It is stated by some writers that he and his predecessors were cup-bearers to the kings of Scotland, but of this there is no proof. By Margaret his wife, dau. of Guthrie of Lunan, he had issue,

I. JOHN (Sir), of Kinnaird, a man of great talents and worth, to the last a faithful and loyal subject to Queen MARY; he had charters to John, son and heir-apparent of Robert Carnegy, of Kinnaird, and to Agnes Wood his wife, of the lands of Erlisfield, in Aberdeenshire, 3 Dec. 1546; to them of Balbardy, in Fife, and Sundertheres, in Forfarshire, 4 Oct. 1548; and, penult., Feb. 1549-50. He m. 1st, Agnes, dau. of David Wood, of Craig, comptroller of Scotland, by whom he had a dau., Margaret, m. to Patrick Kinnaird, of Kinnaird, who granted a charter of the dominical lands of Kinnaird, 6 Dec. 1567, to Margaret Carnegie, legitimate dau. of Sir John Carnegie, of Kinnaird, Knt. He m. 2ndly, Margaret Keith, without issue. Sir John d. 1595, without male issue.

STAFFORD, BARON (Sir Henry-Valentine, Stafford Jerningham), and a baronet; b. 2 Jan. 1802, m. 1st 13 Feb. 1829, Julia, dau. of the late Edward Howard

Esq., F.R.S., and niece of Bernard-Edward, 12th, Duke of Norfolk, which lady d. 19 Nov. 1856; 2ndly, 13 Sept. 1859, Emma-Eliza, dau. of Frederic-S. Gerard, Esq. of Aspull House, Lancashire, and niece of Sir Robert Gerard, Bart. His lordship s. his father 4 Oct. 1851.

Lineage.

The paternal line of the present house of Stafford is stated to have been originally Danish, and the name JERNEGAN. Wever, in his Ancient Funeral Monuments, says: "This name hath been of exemplarie note before the Conquest." Bloomfield's History of Norfolk commences the pedigree of the Jerninghams with

JERNEGAN, OF JERNINGHAM, who was settled at Horham-Jernegan, co. Suffolk, in the reigns of King STEPHEN and King HENRY II., and dying 1182, was s. by his son,

SIR HUBERT FITZJERNEGAN, Knt. of Horham-Jernegan who d. in 1203, and was s. by his son,

SIR HUBERT JERNEGAN, Knt., who had been involved in the insurrection of the barons against King JOHN, but on the accession of HENRY III., in 1216, he submitted, and obtained his pardon. He was s. by his eldest surviving son,

SIR WILLIAM JERNEGAN, who was s. by his brother,

SIR HUGH JERNEGAN. This gentleman having, in 1243, made an exchange with his mother, transferred to that lady the messuage of Horham-Jernegan, and removed the residence of his own family to Stonham-Jernegan. He was s. by his son,

SIR WALTER JERNEGAN, of Stonham Jernegan, who m. Isabella, dau. of Sir Peter Fitzosbert, of Somerley Town, in Suffolk, and sister and co-heiress of her brother, Sir Roger (who was summoned, with about sixty other persons, 8th June, 1294 (22 EDWARD I.), to attend the king, wherever he might be, to advise on the affairs of the realm; but it is doubtful whether that summons can be deemed a regular writ of summons to parliament constituting a barony). This lady was the widow of Sir Henry de Walpole, of Walpole and Houghton, co. Norfolk. Sir Walter d. about the 31st year of EDWARD I., and was s. by his son,

SIR PETER JERNEGAN, of Somerley Town, who, at the decease of his mother, succeeded as co-heir to her portion of the extensive possessions of the Fitzosbert family. From this Sir Peter we pass over a long line of gallant and distinguished personages to his descendant,

SIR HENRY JERNINGHAM, of Huntingfield and Wingfield, in Suffolk, and of Costessey, in Norfolk, who was the first among the Suffolk and Norfolk knights that declared openly for Queen MARY on the demise of EDWARD VI., in the year 1555, for which important service he was constituted by her majesty, immediately after her accession, vice-chamberlain, capt. of the guard, master of the horse and of the household, and one of the privy council. Sir Henry also obtained grants from the queen of several large manors in Norfolk, Suffolk, Herefordshire, and Gloucestershire, particularly those of Costessey, in Norfolk, and Wingfield Castle, in Suffolk. The former he made the chief place of residence of the family, having rebuilt the mansion, and it has so continued down to the present time. Sir Henry entertained Queen ELIZABETH there in her progress to Norfolk; but his adhesion to the ancient faith seems to have been a bar to any favour at court during that queen's reign. He m. Frances, dau of Sir George Baynham, of Clowerwall, co. Gloucester, and heiress to her maternal uncle, Sir Anthony Kingston, and dying in 1572, was s. by his eldest son,

HENRY JERNINGHAM, Esq. of Costessey Hall, who m. 1st. Eleanor, dau. of William, Lord Dacre, of Gillesland, and granddau., maternally, of George, 4th Earl of Shrewsbury, by whom he had five sons and a dau. He m. 2ndly, Frances, dau. and co-heiress of his cousin, Sir John Jernegan, of Somerley Town, and widow of Sir Thomas Bedingfeld, by whom he had one son and a dau. He d. in 1619, and was s. by his eldest son,

I. HENRY JERNINGHAM, Esq of Costessey, who was created a baronet 16 Oct. 1621. Sir Henry m. Eleanor, dau. of Thomas Throckmorton, Esq. of Throckmorton, co. Worcester,* and had issue,

1. JOHN, who m. in 1612, Mary, dau. of Sir Francis Moore, Bart. of Fawley, Berks, and dying in the lifetime of his father, left,
   - 1 HENRY, successor to his grandfather.
   - 1 Frances, m. to Philip Crambleton, Esq.
   - 2 Dorothy, m. to Thomas Pegge, Esq.

* By MARGARET, dau. and co-heir of William Whorwood, attorney-gen. to HENRY VIII. ANNE WHORWOOD, her sister, the other co-heir, was the first wife of Ambrose Dudley, Earl of Warwick, but died issueless.

2. William, m. Mary, eldest dau. of Francis Barnard, Esq., and relict of Hugh Lee, Esq., and of John Yonge, Esq.
3. Thomas (Sir), knighted for his gallantry at the Isle of Rhye, in 1627.
1. Catherine, m. in 1624, to Francis Saunders, Esq.

This gentleman suffered severely during the civil wars. In the Usurpation, the park at Costessey was let down, and the deer destroyed, the mansion, with the domain, let to a farmer, and a considerable part of the buildings was suffered to fall into decay. Sir Henry d. in 1646, and was s. by his grandson,

II. SIR HENRY, who m. Mary, dau. of Benedict Hall, Esq. of High Meadow, co Gloucester, and dying in 1680, was s. by only surviving son,

III. SIR FRANCIS, who m. Anne, dau. of Sir George Blount, Bart. of Sodington, co. Worcester, by whom he had seven sons and two daus.; and dying in 1730, was s. by his eldest son,

IV. SIR JOHN, b. 1678; m. 1704, Margaret, dau. of Sir Henry Bedingfeld; but dying s. p. 14 June, 1737, was s. by his brother,

V. SIR GEORGE, b. in 1680. This gentleman m. in 1733, Mary, eldest dau. and eventual heiress of Francis Plowden, Esq., by Mary, dau. of the Hon. John Stafford-Howard, younger son of the unfortunate Sir William Howard, Viscount Stafford (and sister and heiress of John-Paul Stafford-Howard, 4th and last Earl of Stafford, who d. in 1762, when the earldom created in 1688 expired), by whom he had surviving issue,

WILLIAM, his successor.
Edward, a man of letters and distinguished in literature.
Charles, a general officer in the French service, and knight of Malta and St. Louis; d. 25 Nov. 1814.

Sir George d. 21 Jan. 1774, and was s by his eldest surviving son,

VI. SIR WILLIAM, b. 7 March, 1736; m. in 1767, the Hon. Frances Dillon, eldest dau. of Henry, 11th Viscount Dillon, and left by that lady (who d. in 1825), at his decease, 14 Aug. 1809,

I. GEORGE-WILLIAM, his successor, and late Baron Stafford, which dignity he inherited through his great-grandmother, Mary Howard, wife of Francis Plowden, Esq., granddau. of the so-unjustly attainted Viscount Stafford, and mother of Mary, wife of Sir George Jerningham, the 5th baronet. This Barony was created by patent, dated 12th Sept. 1640 (see note), and conferred upon Mary Stafford (jointly with her husband, Sir William Howard, K.B.), sister and sole heiress of Henry Stafford, 13th Baron Stafford, a barony created in 1299, but forfeited by Edward de Stafford, Duke of Buckingham, lord high constable, and K.G., who was beheaded in 1521. Henry Stafford, the duke's son and heir, was restored in blood by an act of parliament passed in the 1st year of EDWARD VI., whereby it was enacted, "That the said Henry, Lord Stafford, and the heirs male of his body, may be taken and reputed as Lord Stafford, and that the said Henry be restored in blood." His lordship was summoned to parliament from 1548 to 1558. Lineage.

HENRY DE GREY obtained from King RICHARD I. the manor of Turroc in Essex, and had the same confirmed by King JOHN, with the privilege of hunting the fox and hare in any lands belonging to the crown except the king's own demesnes. In the reign of HENRY III., he had a grant of the manor of Grimston, co. Nottingham, from Robert Bardolph, whose niece and co-heiress, Isolda, he married, and eventually shared in the inheritance of all the said Robert's lands. From his 2nd son by this lady,

JOHN DE GREY, descended the lords Grey de Ruthin, (see BURKE's Extinct Peerage) the extinct Earls and Dukes of Kent, the extinct Dukes of Suffolk, the Earls of Wilton, and the house of which we are now treating. The 2nd son of Reginald, 3rd Lord Grey de Ruthyn,

SIR EDWARD DE GREY, m. Elizabeth, dau. and heiress of Henry, son and heir apparent of William, 5th Lord Ferrers, of Groby, and in consequence assumed that title. His lordship d. in the 36th year of HENRY VI., and was s. by his eldest son,

SIR JOHN DE GREY, as 7th Lord Ferrers of Groby, who m. Elizabeth, eldest dau. of Richard Widvile, Earl of Rivers, by whom he had two sons. Sir John fell at the battle of St. Albans, fighting under the banner of HENRY VI., in the 39th year of that prince's reign, and his widow became subsequently queen-consort of EDWARD IV. Sir John Grey's eldest son and heir,

SIR THOMAS GREY, through the influence of his mother, was created, in the 11th year of EDWARD IV., Earl of Huntingdon, and in four years afterwards advanced to the Marquisate of Dorset. After King EDWARD's death, however, his lordship was attainted of high treason, but restored upon the elevation of HENRY VII. to the throne. He d. 10 April, 1501, and was s. by his eldest surviving son (by his 2nd wife, Cicely, dau. and heiress of William Bonville. Lord Bonville and Harrington),

THOMAS, 2nd Marquess of Dorset, K.G. This nobleman carried the sword of state at the celebrated meeting between HENRY VIII. and FRANCIS I. at Ardres, in 1520. He m. Margaret, dau. of Sir R. Wotton, Knt., and had (with two daus.) four sons, HENRY, his heir; Thomas, beheaded in 1555, for participating in Wyatt's rebellion, d. s. p.; Leonard, also attainted and beheaded, 1521, d. s. p.; and John, who, by Mary, dau. of Sir Anthony Browne, Knt., K.G., left an only son, HENRY, of whom hereafter, as Lord Grey of Groby. The Marquess of Dorset d. 10 Oct. 1530, and was s. by his eldest son,

HENRY, 3rd marquess, who m. for his 2nd wife, Frances, eldest dau. and co-heiress of Charles Brandon, Duke of Suffolk, by Mary, Queen-Dowager of France, and sister of King HENRY VIII., and was in consequence advanced, 11 Oct. 1551, to the DUKEDOM OF SUFFOLK, and installed a knight of the garter. The issue of this marriage was three daus.; the eldest, the amiable and unfortunate Lady Jane Grey, having, through the ambition of her father and father-in-law, for a few days usurped the empty trappings of royalty, was attainted, and subsequently, in consequence of her father's second rebellion, brought, with her husband, Lord Guildford Dudley, to the block, 12 Feb. 1554-5. Lady Catherine Grey, the 2nd dau., marrying Edward Seymour, Earl of Hertford, without the permission of Queen ELIZABETH, was committed to the Tower by her majesty, where she died, 26 Jan. 1567; while the 3rd, Lady Mary Grey, m. Martin Keys, Esq. of the co. Kent, serjeant-porter to Queen ELIZABETH, and d. without issue in 1578. The unhappy father, having rebelled again after the Queen's pardon, suffered soon after his eldest dau., 23 Feb. 1554-5, and his brother, Thomas, 27 April following. From that period the honours of the family were eclipsed until revived by King JAMES I., who created

SIR HENRY GREY, Knt. (son of Lord John Grey, of Pirgo, co. Essex, and only nephew of the attainted duke), 21 July, 1603, Lord Grey of Groby, co. Leicester. His lordship m. Anne, dau. of William, Lord Windsor, of Bradenham; and dying in 1614, was s. by his grandson,
